DO NOT SUIT THE REPUBLICANS AND THEY ARE LOOKING FOR FLAWS.

PART OF TOWNSHIP DISFRANCHISED. A Technicality Upon Which the Republicans May Try to Disregard | the New Ohio Districts.

WASHINGTON, September 9.-[Special.]-Another Ohio political sensation has broken

It is no less than a scheme to upset the gerre mandering of the congressional district of the state by the last legislature, on account of a technicality. It is claimed that a part of Storrs township, in Hamilton county, was left out of any congressional district. It is un-constitutional to divide a township for any purpose except its absorption into an incorpo-rated city. A part of Storrs township is included in Cincinnati. At the opposite end of the township are two incorporated villages. It is asserted that the space lying between these villages and Cincinnati, has been omitted from either the first or second district, thus disfranchising the voters of that part of the township -some 250 in number. It is claimed that this sin of emission invalidates the reapportionment act, and that unless Governor Campbell calls act, and that unless Governor Campbell calls an extra session of the legislature it will devolve on congress to act. It is said that congress can, by a joint resolution, order the elections for congress to be held in the old districts. It is also claimed that congress could, in the same way, order representatives elected on a general ticket. In the former case the republicans would elect sixteen, and in the the republicans would elect sixteen, and in the latter twenty-one. General Grosvenor is understood to be at the bottom of the movement to test the matter. He was defeated for nomination in his new district, but he could be nominated in his old one, and he wants to remain in congress.

REED'S MAJORITY. Reed's majority of nearly 5,000 was the chief topic of conversation at the capitol and around the departments today. His friends among the republicans are enthusiastic. They say it is a complete endorsement of his methods and reforms, and that when he returns he will put the screws more decidedly upon the mi-

"He won't even recognize a democrat now for any purpose," said one of his republican friends jocularly to a party of democratic members, "you fellows had just as well go home now, for you can't talk any, and Reed will hesitate no more to count to make a quorum if you are home than if you were here. He will count your desks now, if necessary, to make a quorum.' Reed's friends claim he is the most promi nent figure in America today, and that if he will say the word he can have the republican nomination for president in 1892. Reed's victory is Blaine's defeat, they say, and the plumed knight no longer figures as a possible presidential nominee. They claim if Maine furnished the man and the will, then Reed is that man. The big tyrant will be given an evation upon his return here tomor-

MR. KENNEDY'S SPEECH. Mr. Kennedy, of Ohio, said today that he now intended to print his Quay speech in The Record as just he delivered it on the floor, and that he meant every word of it just as it was uttered. Kennedy comes to this conclusion because Quay said when asked if he would

"No, I would not pay any attention to the words of a blackguard and a loafer."

Thus it stands now that Kennedy has denounced Quay as a branded felon and a second Judas Iscariot. Kennedy did this in a public speech. Quay takes no notice of the charges in a public way, but retorts in private by calling Kennedy a blackguard and a loafer. It is the old story of the pot calling the kettle black, but it will be noted that Quay does not deny that he is a felon. However, his friends say he has not done so because Kennedy' speech has never appeared in print officially. If Kennedy does not change his mind again and does print the speech, the morning it appears there will be a decided sensation in both houses of congress. But it is hardly probable that Quay will make a denial, fo he fears proof, which can be secured. He is expected to get even, so to speak, by having Kennedy censured. But Kennedy might escape this by holding The case is becoming more and more interest ing daily, and any minute might bring forth the expected explosion. GETTING SPUNK AT LAST. The democrats started a vigorous fight today against submitting to any more of their members being ousted from their seats to make room for republicans. They simply walk out se when a vote is to be taken, and leave it without a quorum. By this method they prevented the consideration of the Ven-able-Langston case from Virginia today. The present tactics will be continued as long as the republicans are disposed to unseat democrats, and unless the republicans call in their absentees and get a republican quorum here, no more democrats will be ousted this session.

That is, unless Reed counts all he knows to be in the city as present. THE TARIFF RILL. The tariff bill was practically disposed of to-day. All the amendments were voted in. A reciprocity amendment was adopted. The bill was ordered engrossed and read a third time, when the senate adjourned. This was in ac cordance with a prearranged programme made up when the force bill went over. It was for the purpose of giving both sides opportunities to orate and make campaign material. hours tomorrow will be consumed in speech-making. Then the final vote will be taken

A Brave Passenger.

San Francisco, September 9.—A Chronicle's Auburn, Cal., special says: The Georgetown stage was stopped yesterday, near Greenwood, while on its way to Auburn, by a masked highwayman and robbed. One of the passengers, named Thomas Stevens, borrowed a gun and started after the robber within a few minutes of the robbery, but with what result is not yet known. and the tariff bill will pass. THAT REFRIGERATOR STOCK. The Raum Investigation—Mr. Cooper Threat ens the Commission.

WASHINGTON, September 9.- In the Raum investigation today one of the witnesses placed on the stand to testify in regard to Raum's refrigerator company was H. Ross-bach, a citizen of Washington, and a mechanical engineer, who had exhaustively investigated the subject of mechanical refrigeration. The production of cold by a mixture of salts and liquids was not a new discovery, but had been known for forty years. While erecting an ice plant in Memphis several years ago, he had met Frank A. Smith, whom he had since met here and been told he was the patentee of the Universal Refrigerator. At this point the commissioner objected to the line of inquiry. Mr. Cooper said that he would prove by the witness that at Memphis he first mot the patentee of this scheme; that he was working upon the citizens of Mem-

he was working upon the citizens of Memphis; that an effort was made there to create a corporation, just as had been done here; that the citizens of Memphis had invested in it, and that the patentee had decamped, just as he had done in California afterwards. That he next came to the pension office as the best place to work—a place dedicated to the soldiers of the country, and organized a scheme with the aid of the head of the bureau, and that the scheme was a fraud. Said he:

fraud. Said he:

"Can you—dare you—gentlemen, suppress that testimony?"

Mr. Sawyer—If it depends upon my vote, I shall.

Mr. Cooper—If you do suppress this testimony and close this case, I will carry the question to the house of representatives, and the people of the United States, and it will not be settled by this little coterie here.

Mr. Sawyer—I think it is unbecoming to officers acting as a court to tell them what they dare not do. It is no work of courage or brains for a man to say that if somebody don't act in accordance with his judgment, he will carry it somewhere else.

Mr. Cooper—I have just as much respect for Mr. Cooper—I have just as much respect for your opinion as it deserves.

At this point the commission was interrupted by Mr. Raum to say that some weeks ago he had protested against going into his private business relations and discrediting him. Mr. Cooper had charged that he had prostituted his office.

Mr. Cooper (breaking in)—Yes, made it a huckstering stand for patent rights.

Mr. Raum continued to protest against what he called dragging in private affairs that had no connection with the charge under investigation.

Mr. Lewis argued for a full and fair investi-Mr. Lewis argued for a full and fair investigation without recourse to legal practices and limitations. If the invention was impracticable and worthless the country ought to know it, because he believed that an officer of the United States charged with duties such as Mr. Raum was, should not use his official position to boost any worthless enterprise.

In answer to Mr. Flick, Mr. Cooper said that he did not know that he could prove that he ought to know.

Flick could not see how that could do any good except to aid some corporation in dis-crediting this patent.

After further discussion the matter went over for settlement afterwards, and Mr. Smy-ser was recalled. Cooper asked if he had not told Mr. Lewis, a member of the committee, that he had no money interest in the stock.

Mr. Smyser replied that he did not tell him anything of the kind. He told Lewis that while the stock was entered in his (Smyser's) name, he did not own all of it, but represented some gentlemen connected with him in Ohio.

Mr. Lewis disputed the correctness of this satement, and the two gentlemen became so heated that the commission intervened, and after listening to an explanation by Mr. Smyser, Mr. Lewis admitted that he might have misunderstood him, or have gotten the wrong impression.

After visiting one or two stores Miss Ledbetter left her mother to go to the postoffice where, by appointment, she met a gentleman friend of Mr. McNamara, and the two walked up to the Washington depot of the Atlantic Coast line, where Mr. McNamara was in waiting to take his intended bride to a distant state to have the nuptial knot tied.

The Lynchburg and Durham Road.

RALEIGH, N. C., September 9.—[Special.]—
Arrangements were made today for the opening to traffic next Monday of the Lynchburg and Durham railway. The telegraph line will also be completed by that day. Next Friday there will be an excursion of capitalists from Boston, New York and Philadelphia to Durham over this road, and elaborate preparations are being made for their reception.

Getting on a Peace Footing CITY OF MEXICO, via Galveston, September 9.—A dispatch from San Salvador says: "The disarmament of the troops has been finished. The legislative assembly will positively meet Thursday. The members unanimously favor Ezeta for president. Uprisings are reported in the interior of Guatemala."

ing the trial of the case of George Barngrover vs. Joseph Hiler, before 'Squire Vandament. Hiler, senior, died some months ago, leaving a will in which he devised most of his property to two of his sons and two daughters, to the exclusion of the other children. There has been talk of contesting the will and much bitterness has been manifested. This was a case for damages under an alleged breach of contract between Joseph Hiler and Barngrover, who was one of the son's-inlaw of Hiler. During the trial Constable I. N. Allen, another son-in-law, stepped to the door, when a pistol shot was heard. Allen came staggering into the room and fell across a chair, exclaiming:

"John Hiler did it." Before the terrorized spectators could realize what had happened, the murderer was seen standing in the middle of the crowded courtroom and fired a second shot, which took effect in the right breast of George Barngrover, passing entirely through his body. The excitenent was indescribable, the courtroom being

THE SCOUNDREL CAUGHT. Arrest of Dr. Moore Who Chloroformed

His Sweetheart. RICHMOND, Va., September 9.—[Special.]— Dr. Garland P. Moore, who is charged with chloroforming and outraging a young lady to whom he was engaged, at Eastville, eastern shore, Va., was arrested last night at Buena Vista, and is in jail at Lexington, awaiting the arrival of officers from Northampton county. A Buena Vista special says:

Dr. Moore came here Thursday, and was present in company with gentlemen last night when the descriptive dispatch of him was received. His manner, and the description of him given in the telegram, caused suspicion, and his efforts afterwards to elude arrest confirmed the police that he was the person wanted. He admitted that his name was Gar-land P. Moore, and that he had been clerk of Northampton county. He resisted arrest and had to be subdued by being covered with re-

Husband.

Montgomery, Ala., September 9.—[Special.]—Information has just been received here through Sheriff Haines, of Lowndes, that intense excitement was created at Sandy Ridge, in that county, yesterday, by the sudden and mysterious death of Mrs. Hall, the wife of Robert Hall, a well-known citizen of the place. Mrs. Hall had been sick several days, but her physician says she was convalescing when Hall gave her some medicine, causing almost immediate death. Hall was arrested and had a preliminary hearing before Justice L. T. Reese, at which witnesses testified that Hall had purchased strychnine a few days previous, and other strong circumstantial evidence of his gullt was brought out. Hall was committed to jail without bail. Great excitement and indignation prevail in the neighborhood, and it is feared the prisoner will be taken from jail and lynched tonight.

He was found in an attic room in a boarding house dying. His prepara-tions for death had been careful, as he had laid the bedding upon the floor, stretched himself at full length, and placed the pistol behind his ear. He had for some time been very melancholy, owing to severe attacks of rheu-matism. Falsom's wife and two children live at Sumter, S. C.

Portland's Population.

PORTLAND, Ore., September 9.—The second enumeration of Portland and Multnomah county gives a population of 75,257, a gain of 14,260 over the former enumeration. This renumeration was made under observation of Special Agent Land, of the census office, and these figures are published by authority of the census bureau. A similar ratio of gain throughout the state would give Oregon a population of 375,000, about what the vote of the June election indicated. The June census made it 300,000. made it 300,000.

The Smallpox Scare Over

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., September 9.—[Speal.]—Dr. R. Rutherford, state health officer SAN ANTONIO, Tex., September 9.—[Special.]—Dr. R. Rutherford, state health officer, arrived here today to investigate those cases of smallpox here. In an interview he stated that only four new cases have been reported to him from various parts of the state during the past ten days, and that he now has the disease under complete subjection. There have been no new cases at Waco in fifteen days. The quarentine at Marlin has been raised, despite the bitter opposition of the municipal officers of that place.

How a Run Was Started.

South Bend, Ind., September 9.—A heavy run was started yesterday on the St. Joseph County Savings bank, but the bank stood the pressure, and at night it was discovered that the run was started by two young men who had been refused payment on a draft because the cashier did not know them and they did not find anyone to identify them. CONCORD, N. H., September 9.—The prohibition state convention today nominated Josiah M. Fletcher, of Nashua, for governor, and the following for congress: First district, Rev. Frank K. Chase, of Dover; second district, Charles H. Thorndyke, of Concord.

Wichita, Kas., September 9.—Three hundred delegates attended the resubmissionist republican convention. D. A. Banta, of Great Bend, was chairman. A platform was prepared after consultation with the committee on resolutions of the democratic convention. It seems to be a superscript of the convention of the democratic convention. tion. It renews the pledge of unwavering loyalty to the principles of the national republican party; favors reciprocity; demands the free coinage of silver; such modifications of the tariff laws as will give equal protection to agriculture and manufactures; an equitable bankrupt law; a liberal appropriation for a deep-water harbor on the Gulf of Mexico, and deep-water harbor on the Gulf of Mexico, and liberal pension laws. On the question of prohibition, the platform says:

We arraign the party managers in this state as disloyal to the principles and unfaithful to the interest of the republican party. We charge that they have put the party in Kansas out of harmony with the national republican party and thereby absolved us from all obligations to longer acknowledge their leadership. Lured by seductive wiles of impractical visionaries, they have committed the party to the extravagance and follies which, unless promptly checked, will bankrupt and depopulate the state. These things impel us, as the only method which promises success, to sink party preferences to state politics and unite with such of our fellow citizens of the state as share our convictions without regard to party for the purpose of correcting follies into which we have been betrayed, and thus preserve the good name and insure the future prosperity of the state.

We believe that too much legislation is a curse these laws which are imperfect and the elimination of all such as are superfluous and not generally enforced.

We are opposed to prohibition. Ten years' trial has demonstrated its total inefficiency as a temperance measure; that it is a revival of the obsolete form: of paternal government, and entirely opposed to the genius and spirit of the age; that it is at enmity with the fundamental principles of our civilization, and destroys that inalenable right of the citizen to determine for himself by what method he will preserve all his own happiness without interference with the rights of others, which principle is the basis of our liberties and the hepe of our institutions; that it is un-American, rerepublican and undemocratic, and not in harmony with the purposes and spirit of our institutions and laws; that the existence of a prohibitory law is a perpetual menace to the material interests of the state, it burdens us with taxation; and that it deprives us of all control of the liquor traffic and revenue therefrom; that it drives away population; that it prevents lumnigration; that timakes the building of large cities in the state impossible; it encourages perjury; that it makes more hypocritis than all other agengratues; that it makes the building of large cities in the state impossible; it encourages perjury; that it makes more hypocrits than all other agencies combined; that it does not lessen the crime of pauperism; it does not empty jails, penitentiaries, unate asylums or alushouses; and believing that my public measure in the hands of enlightened people is absolutely safe, we demand that the question of the repeal of the prohibitory amendment to the constitution be submitted to all the people at as early a day as possible.

The platform further declares in favor of high itemses and strict laws for the regulation of the siquer traffic. In conclusion, the platformatics.

Relying upon the justice of our cause, we invite the co-operation of liberal-minded mer throughout the state, and with it the success of the cause of the people will be assured and a new era of prosperity will dawn upon the state.

acclamation. D. A. Banta was nominated by acclamation. D. A. Banta was nominated for lieutenant governor. The convention took recess to await the action of the democratic convention. After the latter convention had carried out their part of the programme by the nomination of Mr. Robinson and Banta and naming candidates for other offices, the convention endorsed the ticket and then adjourned.

THE DEMOCRATIC WING. The democratic and resubmissionists' conventions met here. The resubmissionists com-pose a faction of the republican party, which striving to obtain, through the legislature, the resubmission of the prohibitory amendment to a vote of the people. To attain these ends a vote of the people. To attain these ends they formed a separate party and fused with the democrats. Both conventions met at the same hour in different halls. The democratic convention was called to order by Edward Carroll, chairman of the state central com-mittee. After prayer, John S. Sheridan, of Paola, Kas., was elected temporary chairman, and S. W. McCarlin temporary secretary.

Committees were appointed, and a recess taken until 2 o'clock p. m.

The plank, in regard to resubmission, is as follows:

The plank, in regard to resubmission, is as folows:

Other planks are as follows:

We arraign the republican members of the national house of representatives from Kansas for their unanimous vote for the McKinley bill.

We declare the federal election bill the legitimate offspring of the party which filched the presidency.

We favor a tariff law based upon public necessities and not greed of capital.

We favor the free coinage of silver.

We declare in favor of high license and local option, and recommend a law providing that, for each license issued for the sale of liquor, $500 shall be given the county treasury for the purpose of making and improving county roads, and a municipality may, in addition, fix such other sam as the mayor and council may decide.

The convention then proceeded to nominate a ticket. There were two candidates for governor, ex-Governor Charles E. Robinson, a resubmissionist, and ex-Governor Glick, a straightout democrat, and the only democratic governor ever elected in the state. When the determination to fuse with the resubmissionists became evident, Mr. Glick withdrew, and Mr. Robinson was nominated by acclamation. The nominee was the first governor elected after the admission of Kansas. He was then elected as a republican. In 1882 he ran for governor on the greenback ticket, and recently was one of the leaders in the formation of the resubmission republican party.

Ex-Chief Justice Simrall, republican, occupied the floor for an hour, urging the convention to adopt so much of the report of the committee on franchise as provided for a two years' residence in the state, one year in the voting receiper. a two years' residence in the state, one year in the voting precinct, the payment of poll tax and the Australian ballot. These, Judge Simrall thinks, will secure white supremacy in the state for twenty years to come. The next speaker was Delegate Boyd, of Tippah county, in opposition to the educational or property qualification. Miller took similar grounds.

Indications tonight are that the committee report will be sustained.

Colonell Fewell will take the floor tomorrow in support of his woman's suffrage plan.

The Democrats of Virginia.

RICHMOND, Va., September 9.—[Special.]—
Much interest is felt in the meeting of the state democratic committee, to be held hereon Thursday. The attendance is certain to be large. The time will be taken up chiefly in hearing reports from the various districts. Plans for the conduct of the canvass will also be discussed and represed up. Chairman Fly. be discussed and mapped out. Chairman Elyson has but recently returned from a two months' visit to Europe, and before taking any active steps, desires to confer with his associates and learn from them the condition of affairs in their districts.

RAN INTO THE ROCK, A Bad Accident on a Narrow Gauge

Railroad. DEADWOOD, S. Dak., September 9 .- Sunday evening a passenger train over the Black Hills and Fort Pierre railroad ran into about one hundred tons of rock that had fallen on the track from an overhanging cliff about ten miles this side of Piedmont, deralling the engine and badly shaking up the passengers. A dispatch was sent by one of the road's officials for a wrecking train, one of the road's officials for a wrecking train, and another official telephoned for a new engine. The ongine and wrecking train collided, and a complete wreck was the result. Fifteen or twenty of the men on the wrecking train were badly injured, but none fatally. The road is a narrow gauge, and is operated between Lead City and Piedmont by the Homestake Mining Company, and has just been opened to the public.

THE HEAVY RAINS Which Stirred Up the County Round About

San Antonio. SAN ANTONIO, Tex., September 11 .- [Special.]—This section of southwest Texas was visited last night by the heaviest rain ever known here, five inches of water falling between 6 o'clock last evening and 7:30 o'clock this morning. Considerable damage was done in this city by cellars being flooded in the business part of town. Several severe washouts occurred on the Southern Pacific railroad, west of here, and trains are all delayed. The rain has simply broken the drought, and is of great benefit to the cattle interests, but damaging to cotton.

Strike of the Brakemen and Switchmer FINDLAY, O., September 9.—The brakemen and switchmen employed on the Toledo, Columbus and Cincinnati railroad went out yesterday on account of a disagreement as to wages. This almost blockades the freight business on the railroad from Toledo to wages. This almost blockades the freight business on the railroad from Toledo to Kenton. An attempt was made to run a local freight out of this city yesterday, but it was unsuccessful. The strikers spiked the switch so that the principal cars could not be moved. SEVERAL MEN PRODDED TO DEATH. The Strikers Attack the Mayor's Redidence - Troops are Called Out and a Battle Ensues.

SOUTHAMPTON, September 9.-Strikers made a demonstration tonight, and were only dispersed at the point of the bayonet. The trouble began with deck laborers preventing the departure of several trains. The strikers also besieged the gates of the dock and prevented the entrance of officials. Two compa-nies of infantry arrived in the evening and drove the mob away from the rails. dockmen made desperate attempts to break the line formed by the troops. Some of them took horses from cabs standing near by, and mounting charged furiously upon the soldiers. The troops, however, stood firm, and repeathe troops, however, stood firm, and repeatedly repulsed the strikers. A number for horses were bayoneted, and some of the riders were seriously wounded. By this time the crowd had been greatly augmented, and voiley after voiley of stones were hurled at the troops. One lieutenant had the bridge of his nose broken by a stone, and two others were severely injured.

PIERCED WITH BAYONETS.

At this juncture the mayor appeared upon the scene, and read the riot act. This only added to the fury of the mob, a section of which stormed the mayor's business premises, and smashed every window in the place. The troops were now supplied with ball cartridges, each man receiving twenty rounds. The mob each man receiving twenty rounds. The mob still keeping up the attack, the soldiers were ordered to charge, and the whole line advanced upon the crowd with fixed bayonets. For a moment the mob made a show of resistance, but seeing many of their number fall, pierced by the bayonets of the soldiers, the mob broke and fled in wild disorder. The excitement throughout the city tonight is intense and further trouble is feared.

CHICAGO, September 9.—The directors of the world's fair this afternoon reaffirmed their choice of some months ago and selected the dual site of the lake front and Jackson park as the place for holding the great exposition. The lake! front is a large grass-covered common on the edge of Lake Michigan and covering the business center of Chicago. It contains at present about ninety acres. It is the design to place thereon the grand entrance to the exposition and buildings for the fine arts and kindred displays. Jackson park is also on the lake shore about five miles from the court house and is to have agricultural live stock and other exhibits of that nature, besides others of general interest. Over 300 acres are available in Jackson park and approaches thereto, which were recently added to the original tender. The two sites are to be so connected by rail and water accommodations that but a few minutes will be spent in passing from one locality to another. The final and decisive ballot on the site question resulted: Lake front and Jackson park, 23; Northside, 4; Westside, 8. The choice of the final site was then made unanimous.

RELIEF FOR THE DISTRESSED.

John Dillon Says the Potato Crop is a Total DUBLIN, September 9.—John Dillon, member of parliament, while presiding at a national league meeting held in this city tonight, said be had taken great pains to inform himself of the condition of affairs in Ireland himself of the condition of analys in and he regretted to say that his inquiries during the past three weeks have shown, in many cases, that the failure of the rotate crop was more complete than shown, in many cases, that the failure of the potato crop was more complete than it was in 1879. Referring to the possibility of forming a famine fund, Mr. Dillon said that the simplest method was for the charitable to send receipts to various landlords in the distressed districts to buy them off, and let the tenants keep what they had. That would be better than distributing money among the poor. With the government rested the responsibility to provide for these people. If they do not choose to accept the responsibility let them give Irish landlords power to aid the people.

The Tobacco Outlook Said to Be the Best in Years.

REIDSVILLE, N. C., September 9.—[Special.] Throughout the entire tobacco belt, comes the encouraging news of a big crop. The farmers have for the last few years in this section of the state made complete failures in this special product, and the consequences have been that the country is heavily in debt. When the moneyed crop was disposed of it went to pay off the guano bill, but the farmer looks with pride on his fine crop this year, and the report from all the tobacco belts is that the weed is curing up unusually bright, and the texture is exceedingly fine.

The corn crop is, as a rule, good, and the smiles that play across the face of the sunburnt tiller of the soil is indeed encouraging

The Sun's Cotton Review.

New York, September 9.—Fatures opened at two to four points advance, closing firm at an advance of six to seven points on near and two to three points on late months from yesterdey's closing prices. The market opened at some advance, in, response to further and decided improvement in the Liverpool market, but prices almost immediately receded to about the closing prices of yesterday. It seemed to be believed that Liverpool was not likely to go much higher at present, and selling to realize was the order of the moment. There was, besides, a disposition to discount the decline in that market.

Then came a report from Liverpool that the burean report, due tomorrow, will show an average condition of the growing crop not only below August, but below last September; in fact, 83 per cent was the figure given, and on this there was a fresh buil movement, which became, however, quite languid in later dealings in view of very favorable crop prespects offered at the present time and full receipts at the ports. Spot cotton is steady, but less active.

A SENSATION IN THE MACON DE-PARTMENT.

Two of the Leading Men Have Sharp Words The Trouble Grew Out of Favors
Extended to a Subaltern.

MACON, Ga., September 9.-[Special.]-This evening at half past six o'clock a shooting af-fray occurred between John Vaughn, captain of No. 1 fire company of the Macon depart-ment, and Ben Bowers, stoker of No. 2 fire company. Bowers was shot two or three times by Vaughn. One ball entered below the right nipple and one entered the left side and it is thought pierced the lung. This wound is considered dangerous by the doctors, Ferguson and Gibson, but it can't be told at this writing whether or not he will die. His condition seems precarious. The affray created considerable excitement. THE CAUSE OF THE TROUBLE.

The exact cause of the trouble is not known now. It is said it started a few weeks ago, when Chief Jones attended the national chiefs convention at Milwaukee, and placed Captain Holliman, of the hook and ladder company, practically in charge of the department and required all fire department matter to go to Mayor Price through Holliman. This, it is sa'd, offended Vaughn and he spoke disre-spectfully of Chief Jones, and it is alleged that Vaughn thought Bowers informed the chief when he returned, which caused hard feelings by Vaughn to Bowers. Yesterday when the fire department was practicing, Bowers remarked that No. 1 had the advantage over No. 2. Vaughn pro nounced this statement a d-n lie. Bowers and Vaughn then exchanged blows, when Chief Jones and others separated them. This evening Vaughn, in company with a printer named Mallory, accosted Bowers in front of engine house No. 2, on Cotton avenue, in regard to their trouble. Bowers and Vaughn were seen to be talking quietly, apparently, when suddenly several pistol shots rang out upon the air. Vaughn was seen with a pistol in his hand. After being shot, Bowers sprang upon Vaughn, and bore him to the ground. Other firemen separated them.

THE DOCTORS CALLED IN. Bowers was assisted into the engine house, doctors summoned, and he was found wounded as described above. There was also a bruised place on his forehead, which some think was made by a bullet, while others think it was made by a pair of brass knucks used by the made by a pair of brass kinders used by the printer, Mallory, who was Vaughn's compan-ion. Nothing definite is known of this, how-ever. Vaughn was arrested by a policeman and carried to the barracks.

THE SHOTS FIRED. His pistol, a five-shooter, thirty-eight caliber, was examined, and every cylinder found Vaughn says he fired only two shots, and emphatically maintains that Bowers fired first. Vaughn says only three shots were fired in all. Many eye-witnesses say they did not see Bowers with a pistol, and the firemen who assisted Bowers into the engine house and undressed him declare that no pistol, and not even a knife, was found upon his person. The men were very close together when the shooting occurred. Vaughn says he accosted Bowers this evening for the purpose of apologizing to him for having cursed him yesterday. Vaughn in his cell tonight seems anxious about Bowers's

Great Interest Being Taken in the Propose

Pageant. Macon, Ga., September 9.-[Special.]-Macon's trades' display is on a great boom. The merchants and people generally are uniting to make the affair a great success and that they will succeed there can be no doubt.

The finance committee commenced the work yesterday of securing stockholders to the association. Nearly $1,200 were subscribed in one hour's work. It is confidently believed that $5,000 will be subscribed within twenty-four ours, and this amount will be ample to defray every expense, and give Macon a trades' dis-play and carnival never equaled in the south, outside of New Orleans. Great crowds of visitors are expected from all sections of the state and country. The railroad committee has been hard at work trying to secure the 1 cent rate asked for by the association. They have been in cor-respondence with the different roads, and have received satisfactory and en-couraging replies from nearly every line. As a sample of the interest felt in the great carnival, the following letter is published:

WHERE HE IS ENDORSED FOR THE SENATORSHIP.

Resolution Passed by the Mass Meeting Instructing the Representatives and Senator to Vote for J. B. Gordon.

GAINESVILLE, Ga., September 9 .- [Special.] An inspiring scene—the courtroom filled with the rock-ribbed democracy of the county of Hall, with the battle-scarred Gordon, whose very presence is eloquence, and whose martial form lent enchantment-was presented here

At 10 o'clock this morning about fifteen carriages filled with representative citizens of the Queen City of the Mountains met the gallant hero at the Richmond and Danville railroad depot and escorted to the Arlington hotel, where he held an informal reception, lasting for an hour. He met hundreds of our citizens from all sections of the country, among them being the old rebs who followed him through the din and smoke of battle, the young men who have learned to honor and reverence his name, the ladies who cling to him on account of hi devotion to his country's cause, and the children who love him for his gentleness and manly

At high noon, the hour appointed for the speaking, the house was packed and jammed, among the audience being a large number among the audience being a raison of ladies who were anxious to look upon his face and to be entertained by his patriotic utterances.

When he made his appearance, accompanied by Congressman Candler and ex-Congressman Price, a grand ovation was paid the old hero. In a few words, chaste and chosen, Colone Candler introduced him to the andience and for an hour and forty minutes he claimed their attention with a magnificent speech.

During his speech silence reigned supreme, and as his last words died away, a calm almost oppressive over-spread the audience and when they fully realized that he had finished, a shout which shook the very foundation of the building went up, which showed conclusively that the necromantic power of his eloquence had won, In the confusion of applause Mr.A.R. Cooper, one of the staunchest democrats in the county, arose and introduced the following resolution:

Be it resolved by this mass meeting that our senator and representatives in the next legislature be requested to cast their votes for General John B. Gordon for United States senator, as he is the undoubted choice of the democracy of our county. This was seconded by Hon. A. D. Candler, and Judge J. B. Estes in telling speeches, and and stage 3. B. Esses in terms speeches, and carried by a rising vote. Hall county is solid for the old war horse, and the demonstration made and the honor paid by the yeomanry of this county today is seldom equaled and never excelled.

THE TIGER HUNTER.

fron Nerves and Great Adroitness Are Required to Hunt the Wily Beast.

The task set for himself by the tiger hunter, who alone and on foot penetrates to the tiger's den, requires iron nerves and great adroitness. In Bengal and Ceylon the tiger hunt is a great affair, and is conducted with elephants and with a large party of Malays or Hindus in attendance. Very different was the method of a hunter in the region of Singapore, of whom a contributor to The Revue Bleue writes:

My friend, whom I was visiting at his home.

My friend, whom I was visiting at his home My friend, whom I was visiting at his home, about twenty miles from Singapore, and I were taking a morning walk when we heard a confused # sound of foosteps and of heavy wheels. We went down the hill and found ourselves in the presence of a European on horseback. He had a gun over his shoulder and a great revolver hung from one side of his saddle. Behind him came several Malays leading a buffalo, which drew a car on which lay dead three magnificent tigers.

My friend and the hunter exchanged greetings and he accepted an invitation to breaking off the unfortunate Chinamen who worked on his plantation.

"I started at once, armed as usual with my 22-caliber rifle and my American revolver, a six-shooter. As soon as I arrived, I surveyed the place, guided by the rajah's servants. I decided that the tiger would be found in a certain ravine and sent back my escort.

"It was noon then, and after two hours' search I discovered the entrance to the den. I loaded my rifle, and was gliding into the jungle when I saw the tiger under the thicket not ten paces from me. He was coming toward me, cautiously, uneasily, and happily for me, with the sun shining full in his eyes.

"I took aim, fired without losing a second, and rushed toward him, revolver in hand. I was, however, confident that he was already dead, with a ball in the muzzle, and I was not mistaken.

"The next day, as I was about to start for Singapore, another native chief sent for me for the same purpose. I had myself conducted at once to the haunt of this second tiger, and discovered without much trouble in a neighborhard state of the desired the second tiger. boring jungle the entrance to the den of the boring jungle the entrance to the den of the man-eater.

"I must tell you why it is, probably, that I can be so bold with impunity. I am not so foolish as a hunt in these clothes I have on. I have a costume of tiger skin which I put on when I begin to hunt. This long red hair, already a little gray, which you see floating over my shoulders, I pull over my face, and so leave none of my skin in sight.

"I usually wait till noon before beginning the hunt. At noon in this burning latitude every living being sleeps. At noon then, in my hunting garb, I crawled on my hands and knees into the jungle where the tiger was. I had to hold my breath lest he should hear it, my tiger skin was heavy as lead, perspiration streamed over my face, and I stopped a minute to rest. That action broke several dry branches.

"I heard a sinister roar. The tiger knew I was there. Luckily for me, as I approached the center of the underbrush, the branches rose higher, and I cound stand up. I advanced five steps, and found myself facing my tiger. He was lying like a cat in a vast cradle, his feet folded under him.

"I am sure he felt neither anger nor terror at sight of me. He seaved readly support saw him roll at my feet.

"I rejoined the rajah, and told him that the man-cater was dead. The Malays whom he sent after the animal returned in three hours, confused and embarrassed, with the report that they could not find the place where I had left the dead tiger. I suspected that they dared not go without me, and it was settled that I should go with them the next morning. "We set out at sunrise. I at once found the jungle where I had been before, but I discerned footprints that had not been there when I left it. I cried to the men to retreat. Perhaps here was another tiger. It was 10 o'clock, too early for me to risk myself in the wood. I prepared to wait, and told the men to return at 5 o'clock.

"You will say I might have set the thicket "You will say I might have set the thicket on fire, and forced the animal to come out; but then I should have lost my other tiger, and with him fifty plastres. The government gives me that sum for each tiger's head I present. It is not too much for risking one's life. Alas! I have no other occupation. If, however, I can kill twenty tigers a year, I can very well live on the 1,000 plastres that is paid me. The rich residents also add to this reward.

"I put on my hunting costume, drew my hair over my eyes, and crouched under some banana branches at a distance of about two hundred paces from the den. Overcome with the heat, I fell asleep and slept heavily for a long time. I might have slept till night had not the ants crawled about my ears and aroused me.

roused me.
"It was fortunate for me that I regained my enses then. As I glanced towards the jungle I saw an immense tiger crouched there, eyeing my hat and coat. I raised myself as gently as possible. At the first movement the tiger prepared to spring, and had I not a moment later thrown myself down on my knees, I should have been struck down and crunched

Some Points on Fashion. From The Evening Sun.
Two things are told certainly of the fashions for the coming season. One is that the old-time hoop-shirt is to be worn again, and with it the full draped and heavily trimmed dress-skirt; the other is that the head is going to be piled up a foot or more with a massive monument of so body else's hair. These two things are said to be certain, because the modistes and hairdnessers of London, Paris and Vienna have settled upon them. Nonsense! As if a lot of persons over in London or Paris, or Vienna, or anywhere else were able to or Paris, or Vienna, or anywhere else were able to foist these ridiculous revivals upon American women of culture and taste. American women have learned the beauty of simple lines in their drapery and of the witchery of loose coils and gentle knots and careful carelessness in their colfures. Just a year ago now the same cry was raised about the wonderful head-dressing we were going to see during the coming winter, and ever voman was told that she would have to go b the rats and puffs and false plaits of a quarter of a century ago, and all the hairdressers went to hanging beautiful tails of human hair in their hanging beautiful tails of human hair in their shop windows, and women sighed as they looked at them, and then went caimly on tucking their hair up into the same little puffy knots and twists that have made the beauty of their heads these past years, and by ans by the long tails of silver and red-brown and yellow disappeared from the shop windows, and nobody heard anything more about wonderful head structures. And all the while the hairdressers held meetings in London, and in Paris, and in Vibody seard anything more about wonderful head structures. And all the while the hairdressers held meetings in London, and in Paris, and in Vienna, and went on decreeing great things, and made themselves happy in it, possibly, and, certainly, no one the unhappier for it. It takes two sets of persons to make flashions, you see—one to decree them and the other to follow them.

And as to the hoop-skirt. The Woman believes that is a more hopeless affair even than the other. A woman may be fond of recalling "the tea-cup times of hood and hoop," just as old Æneas wa wont to grow reminiscent, as he relaxed his limbs upon the shore, over the perils of his wanderings; but as to going back and calmly sitting down in the regain of "hood and hoop," she has about as much thought of it as she has of wearing the wooden corset of Queen Elizabeth's time. Fancy a lot of women who have found out how the Lord intended a woman to walk—smoothly and firmly and directly—going back to the swaying, tilting, mincing gait that goes with that abominable woman-trap—the hoop-skirt! Wait and see.

A DEADLOCK FROM LEE

Which Puts the Tenth Senatorial District Convention in a Tangle.

ALBANY, Go., September 9.—[Special.]— The convention of the tenth state senatorial dis-trict assembled here at noon. It is Lee county's turn to make the nomination by rotation. W. C. Gill, charged with being an independent, had been nominated. There was considerable opposition to him among the straightout democrats. Lee accordingly sent two delegations, and there was a deadlock. It was an exciting contest. Failing to agree upon a nomination the convention adjor ntil tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

J. T. Ferguson, a prominent planter of Ferguson, Ga., is the candidate of the straighout democrats. Said Mr. Ferguson:

"If they follow strict party rules, and seat the straightout delegates tomorrow, I will be elected. We claim that but one district elected Gill, and republicans were allowed to vote.
The last time I was in Atlanta was when the bullets were flying thick and fast. I am for John B. Gordon first and last." In case the deadlock continues tomorrow, J. W. Johnson or Captain G. W. Warwick, of Smithville, will likely be decided upon as a compromise. Capt. Gill, the present nominee, is also an old soldier and has strong support as is shown by the stubborn fight being made

The Dougherty county democratic mass neeting will be held here on the 22d of September to elect a representative for the lower Man's Due. From The Chicago News.

During the revolutionary period in Paris in 1848, a committee of seven communists called at the Rothschild establishment and demanded to see the famous banker. Rothschild appeared as suave as you please. "Pray be seated, gentlemen," said he "and now, what can I do for you?" "Rothschild." said the chairman of the commit tee, "our time has come at last. The people are triumphant—the commune is on top," "Good for the people—vive la commune?" cried Rothschild gleefully.

"The time has come," continued the chairman of the committee, "when each must share equally with his fellow-citizen. We have been delegated to call upon you and inform you that you must share your enormous wealth with your country-"If it is so decreed," said Rothschild, urbanely, "I shall cheerfully comply. At how much is my fortune estimated?" "At 200,000,000 francs," replied the leader,

"And at what is the population of France esti-nated?" asked Rothschild.
"We figure it 50,000,000," was the answer.

"Well, then," said Rothschild, "it would appear that I owe each of my countrymen about 4 francs. Now, here, gentlemen," he continued, putting his hand in his pocket and producing a lot of silver, there are 28 francs for you. I have paid each of you, have I not? Please give me your receipt therefor; and so, good-day to you?" The committee retired, and the commune never pestered the wary financier again.

FOR ATLANTA'S GOOD.

The American Investment Company Will Organize Today.

The American Investment company.

That is the name of a company the plans of which, if carried out, will prove of incalculable benefit to the house-seekers of Atlanta. In speak ing of it yesterday afternoon, Mr. J. L. Logan, cashier of the Merchants' and Mechanics' bank, said: "The American Investment Company will very soon be granted a charter by the superior court. The object of the corporation is different from anything ever started in Atlanta and it will pay handsomely.

"The character of the men connected with it is a guarantee that it will be well managed.
"This company will buy lots in different parts of the city, build houses on them and sell them to the people with a small cash payment down and the people with a small cash payment down and balance in monthly installments.

"It will pay better than any company ever started in Atlanta. The profits of the company will be divided among the stockholders just the same as if so many individuals had sold lots and when a profit accrues divide it at once.
"The stock will be payable $2.00 per month on each share for fifty months, but a great many stockholders will pay up in full in the beginning so as to get a full share of the profits. It is a big thing for Atlanta and will be a great benefit to people who want to buy homes. Everybody should investigate the workings of this company. The Incorporators will meet today should investigate the workings of this company. The incorporators will meet today at 5:30 p. m. at Rosser & Carter's office, No 124 E. A MAN ABOUT TOWN.

The "Tin Soldier," which is to be in Atlanta this week, is not, as many people might suppose, Editor Shepard, of The Mail and Ex-press. This is another tin soldier.

For several years it has been my endeavor. as well as that of other people interested in amusements, to induce Hoyt & Thomas to send south some of Hoyt's famous comedies. A delightful and brilliant reception was given Mr. J. G. Gause and his bride, nee Miss Nellie Roberts, last night at Mr. Gause's home, 58 Luckie We have had "A Bunch of Keys" and "A Rag Baby," but neither was produced under Hoyt's management or by one of his companies. Now, street.

Mr. Gause and his bride have just returned from wedding their tour, and the reception last evening was in honor to them as a cordial greeting by their many friends on however, he sends "A Tin Soldier," which is, n my opinion, the funniest of them all.

"I don't know why Mr. Hoyt has never sent his plays south," said Mr. William Gaven, who is here doing the advance work for this one. "This is probably an experiment this year, though I've no doubt he expects to send all of his attractions here in the future. The south is the best theatrical territory now. Last year it was, I believe, the only territory that made money for the managers, so they are all turning their attention to it now. There is danger of the territory being crowded this year, because everything wants to come; but with judicious management that can be habiova

Everybody who has seen any of Hoyt's plays will recommend the "Tin Soldier." Mr. Gaven tells us that he has an excellent com-

Fred Schaffner left yesterday for New York to make arrangements for his Mariborough restaurant and cafe. His project is being much discussed. Upon one point all who know him agree, that is, that he is the man to make the undertaking a success.

The King's Daughters' met yesterdaylafternoon, at Mrs. Locke's, and decided to have their lawn party at Peter's park, Friday afternoon, at 4 o'clock. The meeting was large and enthusiastic, and the arrangments for the lawn party are such as to make it a most delightful affair in overy resucet. The most delightgus in a reason. Atlanta has some good restaurants. It would be hard to beat Henry Durand's anywhere, and Donehoo's and Folsom's belong to the same class. None of these make a spe cialty of catering to the ultra-elegant, but they such as to make it a most delightful affair in every respect. The most delicious ice cream and fruit ices will be served at very reasonable prices, and there will be many games for the amusement of the children. Everyhody who wants a nice lunch Friday afternoon will find it served at the park, by some of the loveliest maids and matrons in the city.

(Mrs. Iverson has returned from New York.

Mrs. George Speer, of LaGrange, is visiting the family of her brother, Majorid. N. Speer, on Peachtree. make a specialty of having good things to eat. The Marlborough, as I understand it, will cater to a different constituency-creating s constituency, as it were. There will be no onflict, and there certainly is room for all. Beb Pause is to go into the business again, I am told. His place will be in the capitol

The Wednesday Club is one of the swell affairs of New York city, a club made up of men prominent in literary, mercantile and railroad circles. A few days ago the club held its midsummer reunion at Mount McCregor, where they were the guests of Hon. W. J. Arkell, of Judge and Frank Leslie's Weekly, who is president of the club. In the list of members of the club I notice the name of Colonel B. W. Wrenn, general passenger agent of the East Tennessee system, who is to all intents and purposes an Atlanta man, even if he does make his headquarters at Knoxville. The party created a sensation in Saratoga by driving through the village and upon the race course on an enormous tallyho coach, hauled by sixteen white horses. They were subsequently entertained at the clubhouse by Mr. Spencer, and the affair wound up at Mount McGregor amid a blaze of fireworks and a colossal midsummer Christmas tree.

Every member of the party was presented Last Friday night little Mary Lou Jackson had a party to celebrate her eighth birthday at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howell Jackson, on Feachtree. The little folks had some lovely dances. Little Bessie Mc-Millan. Daisy Holiday, Palma Phelan and Mary Lou Jackson danced the Fisher's Hornpipe and Cachuca, and little Miss Palma danced most exquisitely the Highland Fling. A deficious supper was served, and the table was most artistically decorated with fruits and flowers. The favors for the girls were little playteings for their dollhouses, and for the boys kaleido-copes. with a gift from the tree and called upon to make a speech. The character of the presents, as well as the replies, caused no little merriment. It is the custom of the club to pass around a loving cup at each reunion. By an inadvertence of the secretary, Mr. Marshall P. Wilder, the cup was left in New York, so he procured as a substitute a capacious tin dish-pan, in which the punch was brewed and from which it was drunk with no little difficulty.

Roscoe is sick. Roscoe—The Constitution's standby, the efficient and capable "general manager of the elevator"—lies in his room on Whitehall street very decidedly under the weather.

The worst part of all his illness is over, but he will be confined to his room for some days yet, all of which is very hard on Roscoe. He wants his friends to come to see him.

Two members of the Richmond county delegation in the next house are in Atlanta—Hon. Eb T. Williams and Hon. Martin V. Calvin. They come to attend the direct trade convention. Both were the recipients of many congratulations from friends upon the successful-to them-termination of what is considered the hardest political fight Richmond county has known in years. Mr. Calvin is well known here through his service in the legislature. Mr. Williams is one of the brightest and most progressive young lawyers at the Augusta bar, and will make his mark in the legislature. He has many warm friends throughout the state who are pleased at his success.

Judge H. C. Roney, the able judge of the middle circuit, is another Augustan who graces the city with his presence. Judge Roney's present term of service will expire this year, and his successor will be elected by the next legislature-that he will be his own successor seems assured. An old-time friend in speaking of him yester day said: "I have known Judge Roney since his admission to the bar, and I know him to be one of the ablest superior court judges in the state. His decisions are as seldom reversed as those of any judge in Georgia; then he is popular, both with the bar and the people of his circuit. It will be hard for any man to beat Judge Roney before the legislature or the Hon. G.!J. Oglesby writes most interesting of the west.

"The country," says he in a letter to a friend, "is growing, and a few towns have wonderfully prospered, notably Denver, which, though the same size as Atlanta in 1880, now has 125, 000 population, with many new magnificent blocks and more being built, and while already a city of beautiful homes, hundreds of splendid new residences are now going up. Cable and electric lines stretch out in every direction and for miles beyond the limit of present improvements, but if confident expec-tations are realized, it is only a question of short time when the present country terminus of these lines will rest in blocks of suburban

"It is true that the trust deed and mortgage records at the courthouse explain in a great measure this rapid development, but it looks substantial, and I can see no reason why it should not continue. Although for hundreds of miles east is a vast unbroken plain, practically without population, the natural product cally without population, the natural product of the soil being sage brush and prairie dogs, yet to the west tower the great Rocky mountains, whose mines, chiefly silver, contributing annually over $30,000,000, which, together with the thousands left here every year by the tourists and invalids, support Colorado. The state has a population of only 400,000, about 200,000 of which is in three cities. This is a treeless country, with but two seasons—a short summer and a long winter.

"Now, when I compare with this, Georgis with her population of nearly 2,000,000, with a soil capable of producing profitably everything that can be grown under America's sun, with her forests of timber and her hills and mounher forests of timber and her hins and mountains holding a limitless treasure of mineral and metal, a perfect climate with its four regular and uniform seasons, I can but think that with these superior inducements for the investment of capital, Georgia should and will be in the wealth of her people what she is in natural reources, one of the richest states of this union; and that her capital city standing in the very midst of all these advantages, with her homes, business blocks and factories built and building out of her own pocket, and independent, can by the next census be easily made a city of 200,000. All that is needed is for our people to realize what we have and let other people know it. Let our state do what these western states have done, advertise Georgia and pay for it out of the public treasury. Let the knowledge of the prosperity of Atlanta go abroad throughout the land, and toward this and other work for the good of our city let our real estate owners—all of them—contribute liberally, and with this increased growth they will reap the harvest that the property holders of Denver are enjoying, residence lots on the best streets selling at $200 to $400 per front foot, and business ground at $1,200 to $2,500. There are in Denver 300 real estate agents.

"I did not intend writing at such length,"

"I did not intend writing at such length," concludes Mr. Oglesby, "but when I get to comparing Atlanta and Georgia with this country, my appreciation of home enthuses me. I frequently find here reminders of Atlanta. Getting a glass of soda water the other days in the control of the contro day, I saw on a magnificent fountain, in silver letters, 'The Atlanta Constitution,' and upon inquiry learned that the Boston manufacturer had given the fountain this name. I am now a regular patron, and since then the soda water from this fountain seems to have a fresher and more invigorating sparkle."

TWO STRANGERS IN A DUEL.

The Story of a Meeting on the Field of Honor in the Days Before the War. From the New York Tribune.

"I have seen one duel in my life," he said. "I do not believe in duelling, of course, but since that duel I have not had the horror of it which I felt before. It did not seem like murder; it did not seem even brutal to me.

"I was in New Orleans and was sitting late ne night in the hotel corridor, interested in a was on that subject which then hung upon every man's lips. Both men were handsome, middle-aged and refined-looking. The con-versation became more and more heated until one of the men said sternly:

"You have insulted my state and me, sir."

"I have spoken what I believe to be the truth, said the other man, calmly, and I cannot change my sentiment."

"Then you offer to give me satisfaction?" said the other.

"'In what way, sir?'
"'As gentlemen give satisfaction.'
"I do not fight duels,' said the other, paling slightly.

"'Not when you have insulted a man?"

"You are not a coward, answered the other. That is plain to me. I ask you as a gentleman to give me satisfaction.'
"The man from the north looked at him

"The man from the north looked at him steadily.

"I cannot kill a man,' he said.

"The other gave him a look which was almost one of appeal.

"If you do not give me satisfaction,' he said, 'or retract, and I see that you will not do that, I shall feel like a hound.'

"'Very well, 'answered the other, simply, 'when shall it be?"

"As soon as possible.'

"The southerner excused himself to find a second. The northern man turned to me.

"I am a stranger here,' he said. 'Will you act as my second?'

"'No more do I,' he replied coldly."

"I hesitated and consented. The four of us were driven below the city. I shall not forget the place where the duel was fought. We turned into a plantation at a point of the road where stood a majestic near tree, which the place where the duel was fought. We turned into a plantation at a point of the road where stood a majestic pecan tree which seemed to bow gravely as the wind rustled softly through its branches and the trailing moss swayed gently. Dawn was breaking and over the Mississippi hung a low mist. The distance was paced off by the second of my new friend's adversary, for I was absolutely useless. "For some reason my principal took off his coat and waistcoat, and the other man did the same thing. They both seemed at their case. In the grayness of the morning the white of their shirts was beautifully clear and pleasing. They took their position quietly. No one had spoken a word since we had entered the field. My friend raised his hand and looked carelossly at his revolver.

"Gentlemen,' he said, calmly, 'I have never

"I looked at the southern duellist. His face whitened at this, but he was cool and graceful in his bearing.
"I forgot my principles. There was nothing brutal, uncivilized or cruel about this. It was beautiful. The calmness of the scene was exquisite. Both men faced each other as if they were paying compliments. There was a grace about their posture which charmed me. At that moment it seemed to me that to kill a At that moment it seemed to me that to kill a man in so delicate a way was the refinement man in so delicate a way was the refinement of courtesy.

"Gentlemen, are you ready? One! Two white-sleeved arms was all that I saw. I did not hear the rest, not even the shots. I saw the arms go up slowly, straighten out sharply, something like released springs, and the southern man was in the damp grass, a bright stain on his white shirt. My friend was leaning lover him, peering anxiously into the wounded man's face. When I ran up the one who wos shot was very white. one who wos shot was very white.
"'Henry,' he said to his second, 'take every care for this gentleman's safety,' and he fainted.

"Perhaps this was one of the most remarka-"Perhaps this was one of the most remarkable duels ever fought. I, an unwilling second, did not know the name of the principal whom I assisted. I did not even know the cause of the duel. Each principal was ignorant of the name of the other. The only two men who knew each other were the southern man and his second. THE SUNDAY CONSTITUTION SENT TO ANY ADDRESS.

ATLANTA. GA., SEPTEMBER 10, 1890.

The Prosperous South.

Our leading bankers and capitalists who have expressed their opinions through the columns of THE CONSTITUTION take an encouraging view of the financial situation, and it is a view that is sustained by the facts of the case.

It is the most natural thing in the world, at this season of the year, that stocks in New York should be dull. The speculators in Wall street must await the return of some of the money that has been sent out to the west and south to move the crops, and they must also await the coming disbursements after the passage of the appropriation bills.

We have seen time and again a dull stock market, and the failure of speculators, without any serious shock to the genera business of the country. At the present time the outlook does not point towards a panic in any quarter.

In the south the prospect is all that could be desired. Our state and county debts have largely decreased, and our farmers owe less than they did a year ago. Our crops nearly reach a maximum, and with our other products will bring us about $700,000,-600 this fall and winter. We are not tangled up with speculative investments and artificial booms. We are on solid ground, and financial stringency in the east and west cannot materially affect us.

Speculators in Wall street will sometimes find money tight, and the victims of western farm mortgages will always find it tight, but the southern people as they decrease their indebtedness, and strengthen their monopoly in cotton, and extend their operations in iron and timber, need not fear a panic, except under very extraordinary circum-

It is safe to predict an era of good times for the business season of 1890-91. There will be 'no boom-no period of inflation, but throughout the south there will be general confidence, and an ample supply of money for legitimate purposes.

Western Farmers and Hog's Fat.

Every motive that prompted the support ofithe infamous Conger lard bill by those who voted for it in the house was selfish. Many who gave it their votes were bribed outright; many voted for it because it aimed a blow at a new and growing southern industry: and a number supported it because they were given to understand that the western farmers were in favor of it.

The theory about the western farmers is to the effect that they favor the tax on compound lard because it will increase the price of hog's fat made in Chicago and other hog centers, and that this means an increase in the price of pork.

The western farmers may be fools enough to believe this, but we doubt it. The suggestion is an attack on their intelligence. The whole increase will go into the pockets of the hog's fat trust, the agents of which have been and are now pushing this bill before congress. Not a dollar of the tax will go to the western farmer, nor a cent of the increase in the price of lard.

If the bill becomes a law, a chean, wholesome and popular food product will be taxed out of existence for the benefit of the hog's fat men, and congress will have set the precedent of legislating one product out of existence merely because it comes in competition with another product which has millions of capital behind it.

This will be the situation; but we have strong hopes that the senate will shelve this bill as it has shelved the force and fraud

An Outrage on Arkansas.

We have heard of republican news bureaus soliciting letters from southern correspondents on political affairs in the south, their requests for such communications being qualified with the statement that only letters dealing with southern outrages and generally abusive of the south were wanted. The northern republican press, with probably a few exceptions, hungers and thirsts for southern sensations, and when these can be made to assume a political complexion they are readily accepted and used for all they are worth to prejudice northern sentiment against the south and the democratic party. A sample of this blood and thunder police of the republicans is found in the dispatches which were recently sent out from Arkansas, and which grossly misrepresented affairs there. Mr. D. A. Brower, editor of The Little Rock Gazette, and agent of the Western Associated Press at that place, was instructed to send out full reports of the campaign news of that state, which he did-giving a fair and impartial account of the cam

But this was not what the republicans wanted, as Editor Brower was soon made to know; and so, unknown to him, other dispatches were sent out, giving a terrible picture of democratic outrages, intimidation and bloodshed, and not only Arkansas, but the whole south was thus misrepresented and

Affairs were proceeding too quietly for the republican purpose; they had certain ends in view, which could only be gained by trumped-up charges of democratic interference and disorder at the polls. Mr. Brower's truthful dispatches were, therefore, followed with lurid accounts of democratic outrages, to which the Western Associated Press gave place and scattered broadcast through the

Against these misrepresentations Mr. Brower has entered his indignant protest, and in a recent issue of The Little Rock Sensational dispatches were sent from Little Rock both before and after the election. Their object was to first prepare the public mind in the north for belief that fraud and bloodshed would occur on election day, and later 10 convince the country that the democrats had carried the elec-tions by frauds, riots and bloodshed.

Leading republicans in Little Rock concocted or controlled the concoction of these atrocious lies, which were coined without the slightest reference to the facts; and one batch of these falsehoods, falsely bearing a Luttle Rock date, appeared Mon-day morning in all the longuals taking news from day morning in all the journals taking news from the Associated Press as an Associated Press dispatch. No such dispatch was sent to the Associated Press Sunday night, or at any other time, from Little Rock. Means were used by which the agent at some other point was induced to send the dispatch and give it a Little Rock date. We do of believe any reputable journst, democratic, re-ublican or independent, belonging to the Associ-ted Press and using its dispatches, is willing to countenance frauds of this kind on its readers. An delal investigation should be made to discover the paternity of the Monday morning bogus As-sociated Press telegram; also the name of the agent of the Associated Press who permitted him-seif to be used by the Little Rock republican leaders in flooding the country with lies manufactured to influence public sentiment.

When will this misrepresentation of the south and southern democrats cease; and how can any party prosper by such unfair dealing? It is this same unscrupulousness in affairs of all kinds which has weakened he republican party in the past, and which. coupled with other sins and follies, now threaten to overthrow and destroy it.

In disseminating this lurid political literature the Western Associated Press has not only done the state of Arkansas an irreparable injustice, but has slandered and vilified the south at large. There is no present re iress, as the republicans have accomplished their purposes. The infamy rests upon them, and not upon the people of Arkansas.

The Result In Maine.

The result in Maine-especially in the district represented by Speaker Reed-has been fully discounted by those who have taken note of the desperate campaign that has been made by the republicans. The contest on the part of the republicans could not have been more heated and strenuous if the re sult had been in extreme doubt.

The campaign was a lively one in all parts of Maine, so far as the republicans were concerned, but in Reed's district it was fanned to a white heat. Lodge, McKinley, Dudley and the great Reed himself were on hand and the tone of their speeches, together with the activity of Dudley's boodle machine, could have been no more pronounced if they had really expected the speaker's defeat.

We are among those who believe that the democratic national committee should have given substantial aid and sympathy to the democrats in Reed's district. We believe that the best policy of the democrats in all contests is to go in with heads up and to fight like folks putting out a kerosene fire; but no doubt the national committee pursued the wiser course. A contest in Reed's district would have been a waste of time, energy and raw material.

Under the circumstances republican success was a foregone conclusion, and the tremendous campaign that was carried on by the orators of the party was merely for the sake of giving Reed a bigger majority than usual. There never was any danger of his defeat; and, the democrats knowing the result, made no extra exertions.

The real issues of the day played no part whatever in the campaign. The voters of the district were appealed to on a personal and local issue—the prestige of Reed as speaker. All the contest that there was lay between the friends of Blaine and the friends of Reed, and the vote-buying, which was so openly carried on, was for the purpose of adding to the speaker's majority.

When the real issues-the force bill, the McKinley bill and republican corruption and extravagance—are brought properly before the people, the voters will tell another story, even in Maine.

Speaker Reed's Methods.

Some men win their way by making themselves pleasant. They smile, flatter, persuade and lead. Their strength lies in the love of the people around them. Others succeed by adopting the opposite method. They frown, ridicule, denounce and drive. Their strength lies in the fear they inspire.

To this latter class belongs Speaker Reed. From the beginning of his career he has been a bulldozer. When he began to practice law in Portland he saw that the leading lawyers made it a point to place themselves in pleasant relation with the jury. Reed disdained such a policy, and when he replied to a lawyer it was a common thing for him to open his case by saving: "Well your Honor, as Brother Blank has finished his morning task of shaking hands with the jury, we may, I hope, with his permission, proceed with the business of the court." On one occasion his antagonist, as he walked out of the courtroom, ran his hand over a reporter's head and smoothed down his hair. When this was done Reed coolly walked over to the reporter, and proceeded to rub his hair the wrong way. An observant by-stander remarked: "That act exemplifies in the fullest degree Reed's character. He always rubs his antagonist, or his antagonist's friends, the wrong way."

The fact that he wins through these peculiar methods shows that he is a strong man. Let a timid person, or a weak will-power, attempt to make his way by insulting judges and juries, by snubbing people, and by playing the role of a dictator in a legislative body, and he will be hurled down from place and power without ceremony. Only a strong man can play such a part successfully. But will this man's leadership last much longer? In this free country there is no room for a dictator-a one-man power dominating the administration, congress, and the rank and file of a great party. In the very nature of things it is impossible for such bossism to last. There are able and ambitious men in the republican party besides the Maine states man. For the sake of harmony they have yielded much, but they will not consent to establish this autocrat in a position where he can make or unmake them when it suits his pleasure. Sooner or later there will be a combination against him, and then an open revolt, and his defeat will follow. It will never do to make a business of rub bing people the wrong way. For a time it may be submitted to, but human nature is so constructed that the rubbing must finally take the right direction, or there will be trouble. If Speaker Reed has his doubts about this, let him try the experiment with a cat in his backyard. That intelligent animal will give him a pointer in less than two minutes about the best way to deal with the public. IF THE able gentlemen who are supposed to be running the democratic party at the north continue to display the masterly inactivity which characterized their operations in Reed's district, the republicans will have a walk-over REED'S INCREASED majority shows what money will do. The old saying that "money talks," will have to be revised and enlarged. Money talks and money votes.

THE WORK in Reed's district ought to an eye-opener to Mr. Benjamin Harrison. It ought to convince him that W. W. Dudley is a great man when he has a pocketful of money. Now, THAT the fall season is approaching, we advise our friends, the North Carolina democrats, to cool off.

THE 'AGED Tennessee farmer who cut his throat because he could not live in poverty, ought to have been in Maine when Reed was squandering his money.

Rose Briggows ought to go to Washington and set up in business as a republican. would make a fine running mate to Quay.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

An editorial in yesterday's issue said: "The fact that many farmers are using the jute article does indicate that they have withdrawn their forces from the attack, and have knuckled down to the trusts." The compositor skipped the little word "not" after "does" in the copy, and made the editorial say just the opposite of what was written. The general tenor of the article, howaver, put the reader upon notice that such a mis-

A WASHINGTON correspondent says: "Senator Brown, of Georgia, comes from that branch of the Brown family which contributed many eminent men to the roster of fame in North Carolina, Virginia and Kentucky. Among his relatives were Aaron V. Brown who served in congress from Tennessee, and who was postmaster general under Buchanan; Albert G. Brown, who went from Vir-ginia to Mississippi, and there became judge, ongressman and senator; James Brown, of Virginia, who was senator from Louisiana and min ster to France, and John Brown, of Virginia, who eft Princeton college to join the army of Washington and who afterwards became member of co gress and United States senator from Kentucky. This Brown's son, Mason Brown, was a prominent judge, and Mason Brown's two sons, B. Gratz and J. M., became noted men, the former as senator from Missouri and the latter as a brigadier general.

MR. JOHN WELLBORN ROOT, of the firm of Burnham & Root, of Chicago, is already one of the most famous architects in the country, although still on the sunny side of forty. Mr. Root is a son of Colonel Sidney Root of this city, and our new Equitable building will bearthe marks of his architectural skill and taste. Speaking of the appointment of Burnham & Root as supervising architects of the Columbian exposi tion, The Chicago Inter-Ocean says: "Mr. Root is of a New England family, dating back almost to the Mayflower. 'Rute' was the spelling of the family name at first. Mr. Root's father south, and resides in Atlanta, having a good deal to do with public affairs. Young Root was in Atlanta till after the siege, when at thirteen years of age he was sent to England, and later went to Oxford university, taking some de-grees there. Returning to America, he entered the architectural department of Columbia college, New York, under professor W. R. Ware. Upor his graduation he went, after a little, into the office of Architect Renwick, now of Renwick Aspinwall & Russell, and left there to come out to Chicago to work for Architect P. B. Wright. In ce he met Mr. Burnham, and they there formed their partnership, Mr. Wright having re-tired from the profession. For two yet to the young firm officed in Washington street—top floor, rear—and had much more leisure than lu doess, but put in sturdy hours of careful reading and general architectural study. Mr. Root, by the by, is another Chauncey M. Depew in postprandial wit and humor.

Of the new Chicago, metropolis of the west, not a little of its noblest architecture is the creation of Burnham & Root, such as the Illinois bank building, the Montauk, Calumet, Counselman and Rialto blocks, the Insurance Exchange, the Phenix and Rookery, the eighteen-story Monad-nock, the newly planned Chicago hotel and Masonic temple, and the temple of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, the Art Institute and innumerable Chicago residences, besides out-of-town work throughout the country.

Said an eminent architect of this city, whose own name has been mentioned more than once in nnection with the high honor accorded: "It is a ost admirable choice, one, that the whole promost admirable choice, one, that the whole pro-fession of America and the world will approve as heartily as we do in Chicago." Perhaps no Atlanta man who has gone to seek fame and fortune in a distant city has achieved a more signal degree of success than Mr. Root.

John H. Inman Exonerated.

From The Augusta News.

The complete vindication of Mr. John H. Inman, after a thorough investigation of the charges made about his using his official relations with the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company for his own private gain in the purchase of the Pratt Coal and Iron Company, is a subject for ongratulation to all southern men in New York. and this is why his vindication is especially gratand the square business dealing of the man, would harbor a thought of dishonesty or sharp financial practice in connection with a man who has made his reputation and his fortune in an honorable and straightforward way, but the world at large is too ready to believe any and everything against any man, and this is why southern people rejoice in the perfect and complete vindication of such a representative man from such a charge.

The New York Sun of September 5th contains the official report of the investigating committee, which was signed by such conspicuous men as Thomas C. Platt, H. G. Bond, Sparrel Hill, Napoleon Hill and John C. Haskell, and fully adopted by the board of the Tennessee compan declaring that the suit was instituted under misapprehension of the facts and that the action of Mr. Inman and his individual associates was honorable and fair in the transaction, as they secured the Fratt company's property at their in-dividual risk, and afterward sold it at a fair ad-vance to the Tennessee company, which price is actually far below its present value of the property to the company. This satisfactory re-port and its adoption ends the charges against Mr. Inma, and in his favor. . Inman, and in his favor.

A Word to the County Executive Committee EDITOR CONSTITUTION: Grave rumors are affoat that at the meeting of the county executive committee tomorrow, novel schemes will be proposed for the nomination of county officers, one plan proposed is for the primary to be opened at 12 o'clock, and to continue until 8 at night. Another scheme is to divide the wards into precincts, rendering repeating probable.

The writer is not, and will not be a candidate for any office. He is a democrat, however, and it is his zeal for the success of the party which prompts this protest against the introduction of novel and untried schemes, which may lead to confusion, and dissatisfaction with the result.

Let us have an honest primary. Let the primary track the state law closely. Begin voting at 7 in the morning and close at 6 o'clock in the evening. As the registration lists are made up for wards, and repeating can only be prevented by having the voters appear where their names can be carefully checked, the precinct idea is out of question. It can only be carried into effect when the registration lists are changed to conform to it.

Now that the campaign is on us, we have no right to make experimental changes which would give candidates cause for dissatisfaction. The late legislative primary was the fairest ever held in Atlanta. The people are satisfied with it.

In referring to the remarks made by me in finding the key, it was stated that "that would open the jail for me," and give me a position, as I was on Captain Morrow's ticket. There was some talk Captain Morrow's ticket. There was some talk about me associating myself with the ticket, but preferring to servethe city in the capacity of a policeman. I positively declined the overtures made to me by a large number of friends. Nevertheless, I am very thankful to them for the kindness shown me. Desiring as I do that Mr. Morrow will be set right as well as myself, you kindly publish the same and greatly oblige. Yours truly,

THE TRIBUNE OF ROME. Its Future Policy Cutlined by the New Management.

From The Rome Tribune. The Tribune flies at its masthead this morning the names of the owner of the paper and its managing editor, and-Both of them are Jeffersonian democrats, Both will devote their best energies in the service of the true democracy and for the election of Dr. W. H. Felton to the fifty-second congress, For the Jeffersonian candidates for the Georgia nouse of representatives.

Thoroughly convinced that these candidates are the only ones representing Jeffersonian and Jacksonian democracy. The Tribune gives to them its most-cordial, sympathetic and unswerving sup-port, and under the flag they float The Tribune roposes to fight so long as it is under the control f the present proprietor.

The Tribune will be neither a guerrilla nor a oushwhacker. It belongs to the solid and organized democratic army, and there it will be found, armed and equipped. There will be no uncertain sound about the crack of its rifle, nor any dull edge to its sword. Fighting for principles that are eternally opposed to secret political organizations and every form of class legislation, The Tribune enlists for the war and confidently looks forward to the Ides of November, when it will join in the shouts of victory for the grand old democratic party; a which will tell of peace, quietude and The Tribune pledges itself to be a newspaper

To this end it is primarily devoted. Arrangements are now being perfected to secure a full telegraphic service and specials from other towns, while the local department shall be each morning "A map of busy l'fe, Its fluctuations and vast concerns." This much at present. It is the set purpose of the management of The Tribune to make it a clean, wholesome, helpful, newsy newspaper, one which will be as welcome in the homes of north Georgia as flowers in May.

To reach the ideal of the owner and e liter of The Tribune, the moral and financial support of the citizens of Rome, Floyd county and north Georgia are asked frankly and with confidence.

The Tribune is your paper. SOME TABLE DECORATIONS

In conversation with two prominent citize few days since, some allusion was made to the fact that John Bunyan wrote his "Pilgrim's Progress" while "in durance vile," at Bedford jail. Quite naturally, something was said of the prison life of Sir Walter Raleigh, whose Walter Raleigh, the prison life of Sir Walter Raleigh, whose misfortune it was to be loved by England maiden queen. We say misfortune, for her love, which was never purely platonic, seems to have fallen like a blight on all who were as unlucky as to be the objects of her devoti-How readily we recall the long delayed con fession of the countess of Nottingham, which if sooner made, might have saved Devereux, the if sooner made, might have same connected of Essex. In the same connected of Lochleven castle and its royal prisoner, and later of Fotheringay castle, where the daughter of the Stuarts and the Guises was sacrified to appease a woman's jealousy. From this we pease a woman's jeanousy. From this we naturally recur to Raleigh's long imprisonment in the Tower of London in the subsequent reign and his literary work during these weary years—"The History of the World." We read it in boyhood, and it may be so hare riedly that about all that we have retained of it is that it consisted of two ponderous quarte volumes. Before leaving the subject we will add that one of these two gentlemen referred to stated a fact which we have never seen in print. During a visit to North Carolina he shown a vine which Raleigh planted with his own hands during his lunatic wanderings in quest of El Dorado: The trunk of this historical vine is said to be sixteen inches in diameter, and its branches yield sixty gallons of excellent wine in a single season. How different the ending of the lives of Bunyan and Raleigh! The Elizabeth returned to England after his fruitless search for a golden city, and died by the hand of the public executioner. Bunyan, the immortal dreamer, as he saw Christian, the hero of his matchless allegory, enter through the gates ajar, caught a glimpse of shining ones with crowns on their heads and harps in their hands to praise withal, and when the gate was closed after the conquering hero, Banjan piously wished that he himself was among them. A few years thereafter his body was borne from his humble lodgings to Bunhill fields for interment-but his spirit had already reached the sun-bright city of his prison

Professor Huxley is at his old work of seeking to unsettle the religious faiths of Christian people. In a late number of The Popular Science Monthly, he scoffs at the whole theory of Biblical inspiration—almost breaks into a horse laugh at the history of Jonah, and sconts the notion of a universal deluge as equally fabulous with the story of Romaius and Remus. He thinks that whole scriptural narrative is derived from a Babylonian epos, traces of which are found in the cunciform inscriptions. The present man'a for destructive criticism seems to have no assignable limits. Not only the Bible, but all departments of literature and science are subject to these critical forays, and the existing trend is to universal agnosticism. After a while the pendulum will vibrate in the opposite direction and then will come the inevitable reaction.

Just now these scientists are playing the role of the prodigal, trying to subsist on the husks of infidelity. The hope of humanity lies in the fact that the thought will supervene when, in the language thought will supervene when, in the language of the gospel, the wayward ones will say: will arise and go unto our Father.'

Dr. Felton's "Hallelujah lick" antelate by many years his first congressional race is the seventh district. In 1853 he attended a great revival at Rome, conducted by the late Rev. D. D. Cox, the beloved paster of the Methodist church in that city. He was ever at that time distinguished by an earnestnes of manner that suggested the phrase "Hallelujah lick," which has since been applied to his peculiar gesticulation. Whatever its ori-gin, any hearer of the doctor will see its apprepriateness when he swings his long, boay arms above his head in the way of emphasis to some striking thought, or to cap the climax of some thrilling flight of oratory. . On the platform he has the physique and general bearing of Henry Clay beyond any statesman I can now remember. It must not be understood that I think of him as in any wise the equal of the great Kentuckian. It is certainly wever, aroused by some great theme he need not hang his head in any presence, nor shrink from any ordeal of inst criticism. Whatever may be the result of his present candidacy he will make the contest with his antagonist a memorable as the Miller and Lumpkin cam paign of 1844. Three confederate officers, perhaps the most conspicuous for personal gallantry in the battle of the Wilderness, were Gordon, Evans and Phil Cook, all Georgians, and all of them at this time residents of Atlanta. Speaking of General Evans, it may not be generally known that he commanded the rear guard of Lee's army during the retreat from Petersburg. In the melee his wife was cap-tured, but luckily fell into the hands of General Custer, who treated her with great kindnes and consideration informing Evans at the first opportunity of her safety.

Custer, who was a knightly soldier, was with his command afterwards massacred by the Modoc Indians.

THE MULE MUST GO.

THE ATLANTA STREET CAR COM-

THE IMATTER HAS BEEN DECIDED.

Good News for the People of Atlanta and of West Atlanta Specially-Change Will be Made as Soon as Possible.

The Atlanta Street Railway Company will,

at an early date, do away with the mule motor and substitute for it electricity. This information is direct, and it is only a anastion of time before the change will be made. The istockholders of the company have been have come to the conc'usion that to keep up with the times, the change will be necessary One of the directors of the company said yes-

"Our company has labored under a great many disadvantages, which those that have been quickest to condemn us did not under stand. In the first place we bought from the old company at a very heavy price, though the lines of the company were worth every dollar we paid for them. A short while after our company obtained control of them there was a sudden impetus in street railroad building, and we were flanked all around, on the north side, by electric lines. We at once went to work to improve our service as much as we could without going to any great expense in revolutionizing the system, which at that time we were unable to do, as we had gone in debt

"We established a through line from West End to Piedmont park, putting on a seven and a half minute schedule from McDaniel street to Kimball street. This, with other improvements, required considerable outlay, and we saw that we could do nothing more, in justice to the company, until we paid out of debt. This we have done, and the last dollar of the purchase money has just been paid.

This leaves us free, and realizing the fact that electricity has become the motor for street railways, we have practically determined to abandon the horse system and operate our lines by electricity, or at least the most important We have been studying the question for several months, and have already in-vited estimates for the change. We have re-ceived several, and propose to act as soon as

WHAT WILL BE DONE.

The company bas no definitely determined on the changes that will be made when its lines are operated by electricity, but it has decided to make a through line from Ponce de Leon springs to Westview cemetery. This will be done by connecting the Wheat and Jackson street line with the present Broad street and West View line, which crosses Nelson street bridge. At Leonard street, which turns off make a loop by being continued straight out Peters where it will connect at Colonel Adair's house with the present line running up Park street, and from thence out Gordon street to the center of West End. This line will continued to Westview cemetery, on Gordon street, thus completing the loop. The White-hall street line will then be stopped at Humphreys street and be operated on a seven Colonel W. A. Hemphill, president of the company, corroborates the above report, and says he thinks that there is no doubt about the change being made. "I am heartily in favor of it," said he, "and I think that my associates are practically unanimous on the same line." "In this connection," continued Colonel Hemphill, "there will be a very important exhibition in Buffalo, N. Y., on the 15th of October, on which may depend, to a certain ex-tent, the system that will be adopted by our company. This display will embrace the different systems for the operation of electric street car railways in the world, every system being represented. Prominent should be mean from all over the United States will be present, and our company will be represented there. It is probable that I will go, and that Mr. Larendon, our superintendent, will accompany me. This is but little more than a month off, and it is not probable that any definite action will be taken between now and then. Such a change as we contemplate will involve the expenditure of nearly half a million dollars, and it would be unreasonable for us to do anything would being represented. Prominent street car vices, and settle on that which we think most satisfactory. Until then we simply ask the people to bear with us, with the assurance that we have determined upon a change, on the line above suggested, and that it will be brought about as soon as reasonable and expedient.

THE PEOPLE WILL BE DELIGHTED. This will be good news to the people of Atlanta generally, and to the people of the west side especially. West Atlanta has suffered badly of late in comparison with other portions of the city, as far as the matter of transit is concerned. Property has gone up wonderfully wherever rapid transit lines have been built, and hundreds of people have moved along these lines to get the advantage of the quick transit offered.

The plans of the company, if carried out, will prove a blessing to west Atlanta and West End, and there is no doubt but that the investment will prove profitable to the com-

THE GORDON STREET EXTENSION. The board of county commissioners, it will be remembered, refused the application of the company to extend the Gordon street line

HOME FROM EUROPE.

SEVERAL MEMBERS OF DR. BAR-RETT'S PARTY HAVE ARRIVED.

Mr. Henry C. Peeples Talks Interestingly of a Flying Trip Through Eu-rope Done in Seven Weeks.

That is what the Barrett party did.

And they managed to crowd into those few weeks a great deal of enjoyable sightseeing. The party consisted of quite a number of young ladies, and a few older people chapperoned by Rev. Dr. R. S. Barrett, one of the most accomplished European travelers.

The party sailed for Liverpool on the Umbria, July 5th, and were seven days on the ocean, landing July 12th. The voyage over was all that could be desired, the weather exquisite, and the party landed in good health and spirits.

From Liverpool they visited Chester, and from there went on to Stratford-on-Avon, to pay a pilgrimage to Shakespeare's tomb. From thence they went to Leamington and visited Warwick and Kenilworth castles, two of the most interesting historic spots in England. From there they journeyed by Oxford to London, where they spent a short time.

ON THE CONTINENT.
From London, by Harwich, they proceeded on their tour, and took shipping for Antwerp, where they first touched the continent of which were vergy interesting.

From thence their trip was like a nanorama. They went to Brussells and visited the old battlefield of Waterloo. From Brussells, they proceeded to Cologne, and thence up the Rhine through some of the most picturesque seenery in Europe, to Bierbach, and thence on to Weisbaden. This portion of the trip was filled with many novel sights and scenes.

Frankfort-on-the-Main, Nuremburg, to Linz was a beautiful trip, and from there they floated down the blue Danube river to Vienna, the Austrian capital, which they saw in all its summer splendor.

"From Vienna," said Mr. Henry Peeples, in speaking of the trip yesterday, "we went to Munich, and then made a digression to see the Passion Play at Oberammergau. Do you know that the little village takes its name from a stream that flows through the valley? I had often wondered about the name. It means 'the valley of the Ammergau.' And a most picturesque spot it is-a fit place for the performance of this wonderful tragedy.

THE ALPINE PASSES. Back to Munich we went, after seeing the Passion Play and from there to Verona and on through Venice, Florence, Pisa, Genoa, Turin and Milan, back to Lake Como. This portion of the trip was like the realization of a golden dream.

"Lugano and Lucerne were our next points. and from the latter we passed through the great St. Gothald tunnel to Interlachen, one of the most picturesque places in that beautiful

"Through the Brenner Pass we went to Berne, the beautiful capital of Switzerland, where we were treated to many odd and unusual scenes that were peculiarly fascinating. A Large Concourse of Friends Assemble to Pay Tribute to Her Memory. All that was not immortal of Mrs. James R. Holliday was laid to rest in Westview

And a large concourse of sorrowing friends followed the body to the last resting place. Wreaths, garlands and elegant designs of the rarest and sweetest flowers were tenderly laid on the bier of one whose death was so like that of a precious blossom withered by the untimely breath of a wintry blast.

The services occurred at the Church of the Immaculate Conception at 10 o'clock, and the great church was filled with sympathizing friends who came to pay their last tribute to the memory of the beloved dead. Rev. Father Keily officiated and the services were most solemnly and tendingly impressive. Requiem mass was conducted in memory of the pure young spirit that had flown from its earthly tenement to a home beyond the river.

I do not mean to condemn the Chattahoochee, but it is practicable, even though it cost more, to secure our water, and plenty of it, from the sparkling streams of the Blue Ridge. By all Ulceration of the bowels, usually called "itching piles," is a very common affliction, and not causing much pain is usually considered of small importance, and the disease is allowed to develop into a very grave affliction. The symptoms of this trouble are moisture and itching around the anus, pain across the hips (low down), diarrhea, and irregular bowels, pain in lower part of same, indigestion, and a long train of nervous symptoms, differing in nearly every case); and in the female, who are more liable to be affected than the male, many symptoms usually attributed to female diseases. This disease is a very fruitful cause of many diseases refusing to yield to the treatment of your physician, and places you on the list of "incurables." The results of neglecting this affliction are terrible to contemplate, a general impairment of health, frequently so slaw as to be scarcely noticeable, derangement of the nervous system, unfitting you for business or enjoyment of pleasure, the development of cancer and stricture of bowels, or loss of power of controlling same when happly death intervenes and relieves the sufferer of histortures. A Lady's Death.—At 9:45 o'clock last evening Mrs. Charlie Pierce, nee Miss Emma Klasser, died at her home on Stonewall street.

She had been ill only a short time, but, in spite of all that skilled physians and attentive nurses could do, she passed away.

About a year ago she became the wife of Mr. Pierce, who is employed by Mr. J. L. Mayson, on Marrietta street, and their wedded life was one of unalloyed happiness until the sad catastrophe of her death yesterday.

Mrs. Pierce was a true and devoted Christian, and was beloved by all who knew her.

RICE BIRDS.—"Rice birds are in their primes now," said Mr. George Whitfield, of R. K. Redus & Co., yesterday, "and the season will not last much longer. Like the whiting, among fish, these little birds are the tidbits of the Charleston market, and the delicacies that tickle the palates of sea coast gourmand, while they last. They come in about the middle of August, and they remain a month or six weeks, but while they are in the market, there is nothing more appetizing than these little fat, juicy, plump pirates of the rice fields. It takes an artist to cook them, however, for the delicate flavor is easily spoiled. But let a cook who understands his business dish them up with crisp, brown toast, shredded potatoes, with sliced tomatoes and crisp celery for trimming, and, —. Well, the season will soon be over, and the rice bird will be but a delicious memory in the mind of the epicure who relishes a good thing when he finds it."

JOHN INMAN ON TOP.—The New York
World says of the discontinuance of Platt's suit against Mr. John H. Inman:

The last chapter in the story of the suit of exSenator Thomas C. Platt, as president of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company, against John H.
Imman and several others for the recovery of §2000,000 was written yesterd.y. It was in the shape of a statement signed by Mr. Platt and four other officials of the Tennessee Coal and Iron Company, who were a special committee appointed to investigate the charges against Mr. Inman on which the suit was elaimed to be based. In this statement those gentlemen say:

"In our opinion Messrs. Inman, Shook and Baxter acted honorably and fairly in the transaction, which greatly benefited the Tennessee Coal, Iron and Railroad Company, and we therefore unanimously recommend that the committee be discharged and the board of directors should resolve that Messrs. Inman, Shook and Baxter are completely exonerated from all blame in the premless."

The directors received and adopted this state-

The OLD NORTH STATE.—Colonel George W. Adair has just returned from a week's oleastre trip through North Carolina.

"I had a splendid time," said he yesterday, "and feel much better from the little trip. I went to Asheville and Murphy and through the country adjacent. Between Asheville and Murphy the railroad that has been building is now completed all but five miles, and this is being pushed forward as rapidly as possible. When these two points are connected we will have a route to either point either by way of the Air-Line; or by the state road—one of the finest routes for tourists in the country, through mountain scenery that cannot be surpassed in magnificence. Talking of Asheville and that country for pleasure resorts, brings on more talk. A syndicate has been formed of London, New York, Chicage and New Orleans capitalists, which has just purchased 285,000 acres of land near Murphy. What this big syndicate intends doing with its immense purchase I didn't learn, but it is given out to the public that the syndicate will erect upon part of the property three magnificent marble hotels. The land purchased takes in Charokee, Wayne and Clay county property, and is very rich in deposits of mar-ble, tale and iron. I made a trip through it and inspected the mineral deposits as a matter of curiosity, having, of course, no personal in-terest in the big deal. But to return to the hotels that are to be built. The syndicate has almost unlimited capital at its back; and the three hostleries are to be as magnificent as money can produce. They have the marble right there and it will be used lavishly. Then the completion of the railroad connecting Murphy and Asheville will make the place ac-cessible from both sides, and it is reasonable to predict that as a resort it will not be exceeded anywhere."

A first-class swimming school, boathouse, and all that sort of thing, would be included, with good aquatic sports as special features now and then. A BIG SUIT.

ATLANTA ASKS THE COURT TO EN-JOIN THE SOUTHERN OIL CO.

nce of the Burning of the Mills and the Precipitation of Oil and Refuse into the Streams.

The City of Atlanta, through City Attorney John B. Goodwin and his assistant. Judge James A. Anderson, has asked for a restrain-ing order in regard to the Southern Oil Company, H. W. Haskell, manager.

The agreement in the case will be heard at 9 o'clock, September 13th. The suit is based on the burning of the oil mills and the material stored therein, in the shape of oil, soap stock and cotton seed oil cake, last July.

The results of this fire are painfully familian to the people of Atlanta. For the reason that the emptying of hundreds of thousands of callons of oil into two of the principal feeders of the reservoir, Hardin's branch and Todd's branch, created an alarm in regard to the health of the city that has only recently

While Todd's branch has been for some me cut off from the water supply, because of the increasing density of the population on that portion of the watershed, still it is claimed that the emptying of these deleterious substances into the branch created a nuisance that was most offensive to the sight, taste and smell.

that in 1874 the tract of land adjacent to the waterworks, and including the system, was purchased by the city of Atlanta at a cost of $500,000.

Afterwards an increased expense of $100,000 was incurred in the laying of pipes, construction of reservoirs and other contingent accessories for the bringing into the city and general distribution of the water.

The supply was adequate to the necessities of the city, so the bill sets forth, in the way of culinary, sanitary, fire protection and manufacturing purposes.

Finally the Southern Oil Company purchased lands on one of the lots which the city had purchased. No. 71. not 300 vards from Hardin's branch, and began the erection of their plant. The mill was of a a capacity sufficient to turn out many thousand gallons of oil a day, and buildings and storehouses were erected for the storage of the oil the soan stock and the oil cake.

THE BOARD OF HEALTH AGREED, after a thorough discussion of the matter, to allow the mill and storehouses to remain so long as none of the refuse was allowed to be drained into the watershed of the waterworks

When the burning of the mill and store houses occurred, quite a large amount of oil, soap grease and caustic soda was precipitated into the lake which supplies the reservoir, and for awhile there was an every-day sensation concerning the matter.

Shortly after the fire, the Southern Oil Company began to rebuild storage houses, but when the fact was made known to the city council, resolutions were passed requesting that the company be prohibited from carrying on the work. CARRIED TO THE STATE COURTS.

Pursuant to these resolutions, the city attorneys drew up the petition, the complaints in which are briefly set forth in this article. Judge Marshall J. Clarke considered the petition carefully, and set the case for a hearing on Saturday next, September 13th, at 9 o'clock. In connection with the present agitation of the water supply problem, the case is one of more than ordinary interest, and the decision will be looked for with much interest by the people of the city.

For those who have read the journal of that gifted and cultured, but abnormally egoistic young artist, Marie Bashkirtseff, the painting by young artist, Marie Bashkirtsell, the painting of Bastien LePage of Jeanne d'Arc, now on exhibi-tion in the Metropolitan Art Museum, has a surassing interest. The first impression is that the picture is unattractive and ugly, but when once the spell of the intense truth of the scene has touched one the conquest of LePage and his methods is complete. The canvas is large, the figure life size, portrayed in the extreme of the French realistic school, and o our preconceived ideas of grandeur and beauty,

The old conception of the historical Joan, as a personage, feminine in name of steel, rushed forth, conquering and to conquer of steel, rushed forth, conquering and to conquer, goes down before this deadly realism, which seeks only for truth.

The scene is a quiet garden in the rear of a peasant hut. This neglected spinning wheel and overturned stool suggest the suddenness of the call which has come to the young maiden, who stands, with outstretched arms and eyes gazing into futurity, absorbed in the vision which is taking form behind her—a figure in armor—an angel with a crown, and a bowed and weeping form, so clouded and bedimmed as to be only suggested to the imagination. "One summer's day—a fast rested to the imagination.

Michelet says: "One summer's day—a fast day—Joanne, being at noontide in her father's garden, close to the church, saw a dazzling light, and in the midst of the effulgence, noble figures, one of which had wings. 'Jeanne,' said this figure to her, 'go to ithe succor of the king of France, and thou shalt restore his kingdom to him.' She replied, all trembling: 'Messiere, I am only a poor giri, I know not how to ride or lead men-at-arms."'

The story centers in the eyes of the girl, those eyes of heavenly blue, strained and absorbed. Sightless to the outside world, but seeing clearly with the mental vision.

Down what a vista do those young eyes look.

with the mental vision.

Down what a vista do those young eyes look. The separation from her beloved flock, emancipation from all womanly cares and pleasures, the camp, the battle field, the martyr's death.

In all but the inspiration of the seraphic vision this girl is an ordinary peasant. Her home-spun blouse is laced with string, her coarse short skirt is torn and faded, her bare feet, which protrude, are neither white nor slender. The light hair hangs in two braids from the small head, and the face is simple and childish, with nothing to indicate ambition nor great strength of will.

She is evidently a medium of fate, not a cause. The complete unconsciousness of self; the wrapt obedience:to this spirit voice, as the summons comes, "Go forth; thou shalt witness for me on earth!" all speak the one idea—the divine message to this humble listener. This is not paint and canvas; this is life.

This is the work of a master. None but genius can so paint soul into canvas—none so exalt and ennoble the commonplace.

Bashkirsteff says of him: "What idiots they are Hashkirstelf says of him: "What Idiots they are who say he excels in execution only. He is an original, a powerful artist; he is a poet; he is a philosopher; other artists are workmen compared to him; he is grand as nature is—as life is."

In Paris this picture was not appreciated until it became famous, and in New York it does not attract the superficial observer, but when once its charm is felt, it will last as long as memory shall endure.

MR. WILSON'S TWO COLUMNS. Frightful Railroad Accident and a Shadowy Form Brings the News, From The New York Tribune.

"Mr. Wilson, how soon can you get ready to start for H Illinois?"

"In an hour, sir." This conversation took place in the office of The New York Chronicle one morning as the men on the staff came to receive their assignments. If the city editor had asked Wilson how soon he could get ready to start for Alaska he would have received precisely the same reply.

Edward Wilson hurried off to his rooms, and astily packing a few necessaries in a valise, reported back at the office in exactly an hour. "He was a paragon of a reporter," you will say, "this Wilson." But he was merely an ordinary city staff reporter, who, like thousands of others on the big dailies of America, stand ready at an hour's notice to start for any part of the world.

"This little as the office of the control of the world."

"This Illinois story will bring two columns, eve if I'm recalled immediately," he mused as he rat tled up to the Grand Central station in a hansom; "two columns will bring my bank account up to $100, and $100 will bring the wife and little one to New York." Wilson thought with del how happy they would be in his comfortable little Lexington-avenue flat. It was a pleasant little Past the end of Manhattan island, past Riverdale, Yonkers and all the lovely northern suburbs of the city, along the rolling Hudson, past the muddy Mohawk, then as night fell, screaming past the little hamlets sleeping under the hills of central New York, and on, on, on to the great lakes.

There was nothing in the carto interest Wilson, and as the sun sank behind the ripening wheathills, he dozed fitfully and waking, would sleep hills, he dozed fitfully and waking, would sleep again, waking and sleeping by fitful starts, and wondering what it was that kept him in a vague but all the more fearful terror. Finally he slept, and it was while he dreamed that a terrible acci dent happened. The trestle bridge over a swellen creek, weakened by the rush of waters, had given way under the advancing train and 900 people way under the access.

The night desk littered with proof slips and "held-over copy"; no sound but the operator ticking "good-night" to his faroff brothers, and an occasional shout of "Copy! from the desk.

A tall figure in a caped overcoat and traveling cap enters the room, and silently walking up to the night desk lays some "copy" before the editor. The men in the office, bending over their work, do not see him pass, but the office boy, brushing his hat, yawns: "Good morning, Mr. Wilson," but the form goes straight on.

"Can't use this, Mr. Wilson," says the editor, looking at the clock. "Why, it's 1:50; the paper's going to press. What is it, anyway?" "Yes, by George, we will run it." he continues, excitedly; "Jim, stop the presses." Then to the operator: "Have you an accident on the New York and Buffalo yet?"

"No. sir." "How did you get it, Wilson?"
But the form had gone.
"My God! listen to this," says the sub-editor. "The accident must have occurred at 1:50 exactly. Among the dead was Edward Wilson, a reporter on The New York Morning Chronicle, What was it then that brought this 'copy' in?"
"I don't know," replied the editor in a hushed voice. "Send the story up, just as it is. It runs

Is ever coming to the front. What beverage shall we drink to quench thirst? The most popular non-intoxicant is Cocoa, which is rapidly supplanting tea and coffee as a national beverage. There are many excellent Cocoas, but in advance of all other preparations stands Van Houten's, the original, which is universally declared to be perfectly pure, free from fat, easily digested, delicious to the taste, nutritious, and a stimulant without any depressing after-effects

Van Houten's Cocoa was introduced into the household of the late Emperor of Germany upon high recommendation. The senior physician of the London Court Hospital has used this brand of Cocoa for many years. It is strongly recommended to students and all whose duties involve much wear and tear, whether mental or physical. For these reasons it has earned the highest encomiums of the leading analysts of the day. Forecast for Georgia. DIRECT TRADE.

THE CONVENTION OF SOUTHERN STATES MEETS HERE TODAY.

HON. C. P. GOODYEAR TALKS.

He Gives His Experience in a Number of Efforts to Secure Direct Trade— Confident of Final Success.

The direct trade convention meets in Atlanta today.

Its action will be watched with interest all over the United States. A number of southern states are to be repre sented. Governor Fleming, of Florida, was the first to telegraph that he would come a bring a delegation. Governor Fowle will be here with the de'egates from North Carolina. Representatives will be here from Arkansas. Louisiana and Alabama. Others, perhaps, will come from other states.

The list of delegates from Georgia includes ome of the most successful business men in

Two additional delegates were appointed by Governor Gordon yesterday—Mr. C. P. Good-year, of Glynn, and Mr. Willis Newton, of

The convention meets in the hall of repre sentatives in the new capitol at 10 o'clock this morning.

Hon. W. J. Northen will probably be made chairman. A Talk with Colonel Goodyear.

No man in the state, and probably none in the south, knows more about the matter of direct trade than Hon. C. P. Goodyear, of He has been prominently identified with every movement in this direction made in years, and is now one of its most sanguine ad-He is withal a conservative and notably successful business man. His views upon the subject are interesting, and will doubtless have effect in shaping the policy of the convention "As a northern man," he said yesterday, "somewhat familiar with import and export trade from New York, it occurred to me when I first came to Georgia. in 1870 that the south with deep water harbors, the immense cotton crop, the larger portion of which is exported, ald do its own exporting and importing to its great advantage.

"In 1871 it will be remembered that H. I. Kimball was president of the Brunswick and Albany Railroad Company, in course of construction, and reconstruction, from Brunswick to Albany. He was also president of the construction company constructing the road which was graded a considerable portion of the distance from Albany to the Chatta-hocchee river at Eufaula, where it had connections assured with the west via the Montgomery and Eufaula road, not then absorbed by the Central road.

"He sent a representative to London, Liverpool and Glasgow. He was himself in England and on the continent during the summer of 1871, the result of which was that an arrangement was made with a strong company of steamship owners to put on a line to Bruns-

Their representative arrived in Brunswick with the books of the line and opened an office in Brunswick early in October, 1871. The dates of sailing of the first ships had been arranged, when on October 27, 1871, a bill was filed, the road thrown into the hands of a receiver, and the project abandoned. Through my acquaintance with Colonel Charles S. Schlatter, chief engineer, and really the founder of the Brunswick and Albany railroad project, afterwards its general manager, was acquainted with many of details of the effort to start this line, and asertained that the English parties were sound a iness men conversant with our import and xport trade and satisfied it would pay.

"Brunswick passed through a period of financial distress from 1871 to 1880. In 1882 the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia Railway Company had completed its road from Macon to Rome. The firm of Goodyear & Kay received a letter from a client naming a gentleman, deeply interested in direct trade, as having interested parties in Boston who had estab-lished a line from Boston and as intending to go to Liverpool, London and Glasgow, and en deavor to establish a line to Brunswick. The correspondence resulted in an agreement that he was to pay all expenses on the other side, our firm on this side. He remained four years in England, exhausting his means, apparently on the eve of success a dozen times, we carrying out our agreement upon this side. It is, of course, needless to say it was a failure. We bought our experience somewhat dearly. With the details of our efforts, our hopes and our ultimate failure neither you or the public would be interested.

"We found an apathy existing upon the subject of direct trade, which was discouraging to he last degree. "We found the argument most erally advanced, the one which has killed more new enterprises than all others: 'It can't be done because it never has been successfully done.' 'If it could be made to pay good business men would have *aken hold of it long ago."

"We found that a futile effort had been made to establish a line and secure direct trade;at Newport News and Norfolk and had

"The reasons were that while during the cotton movement ample cargoes could be secured for nearly seven months in the year, outgoing cargoes could not be secured, and that no imports could be

'We began an investigation of the reason for this. We found that in addition to lumber and naval stores, which could be relied upon for part cargoes, there was then being shipped large quantities of hard woods and other freights from the interior of the south by rail to New York and thence to England and Europe. We found that it was impossible to divert these last named freights through a southern port until the permanency of any line established was assured. We interviewed the managers of the East Tennessee, then our only railroad connecting us with the interior, and received an agree ment to give through bills of lading and through freight rates, if we could establish the line and that rates should be competing with those of New York lines.

"But witnout imports there could be no real competition with New York lines, which also derived a large revenue from immigrants, and we found upon investigation that there was an aggregate of importations to the south ample to give a line cargoes this way, but that there were no southern importing houses able to tie up the amount of capital necessary to hold imported cargoes for distri-

That we must either find capital on this side, or finding it upon the other, import an importing house. We failed to get the capital on either this side or the other, although it at one time seemed certain that we had

"But we met with another difficulty. There were plenty of steamships suited for the purpose, but with the caution usual with capitalists, they demanded guarantees of a certain amount of freight money each round trip. Of course, two struggling lawyers in a struggling seaport could not give it, and the project finally failed. "The difficulties existing then, exist now, although not so great now as then, owing to the south's wonderful growth in wealth enab-ling her to import more, her wonderful in-crease in freight products enabling her to export more. "To sum up the difficulties, they are to procure ample freights for the seven months in the year when cotton is not moving, insure per-mancy of line and through bills of lading which railroads are now giving and that difficulty will be overcome, for there are ample freights exported from the south now, via New York.

"But the permanency of line can only be secured by creating a strong corporation amply able to carry out its contracts, prepared to do a heavy wharfing and warehouse and factorage business and to import goods for distribution and hold them for that purpose; also to guarantee a line for-each round trip, a certain freight earnings and pay the difference if it earned less than the guarantee for a term of at least one year.

"Conventions will arouse interest, and ar valuable in that view, but they will never secure direct trade. The same business methods which are adopted when a cotton factory or any new enterprise which individual capital cannot accomplish of legalized corporate

"That efforts in the past were premature, I admit. That it is a chimerical project and cannot be accomplished now, I do not believe. "An organized company, with a capital of $1,000,000, power to increase to $5,000,000, which would put earnest and untiring men in its management, would accomplish it by the next cotton season, to the south's great benefit and the stockholders, profit."
Brunswick's Delegation.

The delegation from Brunswick to the direct trade convention arrived yesterday and are registered at the Markham. In the party are Dr. W. B. Burroughs, Colonel C. P. Goodyear, Hon. J. E. Dart, A. I. Branham, Judge S. R. Atkinson and W. P. Kent.

A DRAMATIC INCIDENT.

A Story in Which Some Atlanta People Are Interested.

The following extract from The Leesburg Mir-for tells of a touching and dramatic incident in the life of Major T. B. Hutchison, a near kinsman of Hutchison brothers, so well known to all of us. Colonel Edmund Berkeley, of the Eighth Virginia, is the father of Captain Edmund Berkeley, superintendent of the Richmond and Danville, and one of the most prominent of Atlanta's citizens:

"I was truly sorry to hear at Aldie of the death of Major T. B. Hutchison, which occurred, as al-ready noticed in your paper, at the home of his brother, Captain J. R. Hutchison, Seldon does as good a man as Major Hutchison pass away from the troublous scenes of time pilgrimage to the quiet of that 'bourne from whence no traveler returns.' As a man of dauntiess courage, he stood high among the brav-est. Entering the confederate service at the very beginning of the war he followed the conquered but ever glorious banner of the lost cause to the day when it went down in blood and ruin at Appomattox. He was one of the heroes of the immor-tal Eighth Virginia. He entered that regiment as a private, become its adjutant, and afterwards was promoted to a majority on General Hunton's staff. As a soldier he was true to all the require-ments of a soldier's duties—never shrinking from their full performance in any situation or ander any circumstances. In battle he was ever where the brave man seeks to be—nearest the enemy. At Gettysburg he was one of the eleven out of the 200 of the Eighth who came back from the field, and in coming back, he brought with him upon his shoulders his wounded colonel, Edmund Berkeley—daring everything to do this generous and heroic act. As a friend and as a citizen he was loval and faithful, and his generou heart was ever ready to respond to the appeals of sorrow or misfortune, and he bore the troubles which clouded his last days with an uncomplaining manliness and equanimity, which displayed, better than anything else, the noble and sturdy stuff of which his character was constructed. AT THE THEATER.

Today, at matinee and night, this funny comedy will be given at the opera house, and will delight our people.

The New Orleans Times-Democrat said of the performance: "To say that the immense au-dience which crowded the St. Charles theater was pleased with the performance which appeared on the boards there last night would be drawing it mildly. They came to see a farce, and "Mc-Carthy's Mishaps," the play presented, fulfilled their expectations. Throughout its entire course, from the time the curtain went up on the first act until it was rung down on the close of the performance, the audience was kept in a state of boisterous hilarity. Nearly every bit of specialty was received a second and a third time."

Do you want to escape chills and fever this season? No matter how much malaria is in the atmosphere and how many may be taken down in your neighborhood with malarial fevers, they could have escaped and you can escape by a use of that excellent remedy, Smith's Tonic Syrup, made by Dr. John Bull, of Louisville, Ky. It cures chills and fever when quinine fails. It is far better than quinine, for it leaves no unpleasant after effects. Smith's Tonic Syrup is not an experiment, For many years it has been considered the only safe and certain cure for chills and fever. You do yourself great injustice if you fail to take this remedy, for it will cure you even when all other treatment fails. Do You Want to Escape.

Quick Time to New York.

The E. T., V. and G. Railway system has established an excellent record for quick time and prompt delivery to all points in the east.

By leaving Atlanta at 11 a. m. the traveler arrives in New York at 10:25 the following evening, with no change of cars from Rome to Philadelphia. By leaving at 11 p. m., the traveler has the benefit of sleeper to Knoxville. After thirty minutes for breakfast at that place, steps into sleeper for New York city via the famous Shenandonh Valley route, thereby making virtually no change of cars from Atlanta to New York city on this run.

The E. T., V. and G. Railway, can boast of being the most reliable road in maintaining schedules in the United States, besides possessing facilities that cannot be duplicated.

When the Fulton county democrats met or the 19th of July to select a new executive committee and select delegates to the state convention, delegates to the senatorial convention were also named. Soon after that action, however, it was discovered that the call of Hon. Hubert Culberson, then chairman of the county democratic committee, had not contemplated or provided for senatorial delegates as a product of the mass meeting.

Then five of the delegates named by the mass meeting sent their resignation to the chairman of the executive committee. The sixth member, Mr. Sam Taliaferro, did not send in his resignation. The democratic executive committee considered the points raised in these resignations and in order that the matter might be settled by the people themselves, ordered a primary for senatorial delegates to be held on the same day as delegates to the congressional convention and county officers were to be voted for. That primary was held August 19th, and . Cooper, Dr. E. J. Roach, Jesse P. Kinyon, George M. Hope, Charles S. THE GREAT SALE

Will Continue Till the 30th-A Sweepin Reduction in Odd/China and Bric-a-Brac.

Dobbs, Wey & Co.'s sale of odd china still con tinues and is increasing in volume daily, as the people learn of the excellent bargains that are offered, in good faith, at original cost. Everybody is satisfied, except some of our smaller competi tors, who complain, because the crowd of purchasers flock to our store. This we cannot help, and to make it more interesting, we will offer our entire line of Art Pottery and Bric-a-Brac on the same terms, until the close of this month. This collection consists of choice specimens of "Royal Worcester," "Old Hall," "Doulton's," "Royal Dresden," and of other celebrated factories of Europe. These goods are all of new styles and patterns, as is the china we are now slaughtering. It is the natural result of our immense importing business, exceeding in volume that of all the firm in our line in the city combined, that we should have at the close of the season a great many odd sets and odd pieces, and to close these out in s hurry, we offer INDUCEMENTS in the way of Low PRICES that MUST make them move.

We still have a large number of Dinner Sets Chamber Sets, Tea Sets, odd dozens Plates, Cups. Saucers, fancy pieces of china, white and decor ated. ALL GOING AT COST while they last.

We are determined to clean out the entire lot before our new stock, now coming over, will be placed on the shelves. Remember, this sale closes with this month, so come in time for your share of the bargains. DOBBS, WEY & CO., No. 45 Peachtree Street.

4 Central Residence Lots 4

S. W. CORNER IVY AND HARRIS STS. AT AUCTION,

Monday, September 15, 4 P, M. ON THE PREMISES.

Three of the lots are 25x100 feet each and one is 27x100 feet, 8 foot alley in the rear of all. Each lot will be offered with the privilege of the adjoining lot at the same price, so that any one ob-jecting to a 25-foot front lot, can bid with the pos-tive assurance of controlling 50 feet front at the same price per lot, should he wish to do so. The same price per lot, should be wish to do so. The property is only five blocks from the Kimball house, and there is great demand for small residence lots so centrally located. Very few are to be had, and those wishing one will find it to their interest to attend this sale. Belgian blocks sidewalk, water, gas and sewerage are already in front of the property and paid for, and the purchaser at this sale will never be called upon for a cent for street improvements. There is no section of the street improvements. Interest to section of the city where property rents better than right here, and you could make no better investment in Atlanta rent-paying property than to buy the four lots and erect thereon a duplicate of the blocks of either Mr. Robert Winship or John M. Hill, just this side of the property. Central vacant of either Mr. Robert Winship or John M. Hill, just this side of the property. Central vacant property is scarce, and is the best, safest and surest property you can put your money in. These lots are just one block from the Peachtree car line and the same distance from the Courtland street electric car line. Every lot offered will be sold to the highest bidder. Call and get a plat. Sale begins promptly at 4 o'clock. Be there on time. Terms cash.

SAM'L W. GOODE & CO.

TO THOSE SEEKING AN INVESTMENT IN SUBURBAN PROPERTY.

We wish to call your attention to an investment in a large tract of land on Howell's Mill road, which is offered at a low price for a few days only. It is right in the line of the many improvements already made and to be made between Atlanta and the river. It has a beautiful front of 3,000 feet on the road and lies well. Is just the right distance from the city at which to buy to get the best profit. Howell's Mill road has recently been changed from one of the roughest to the best road in Fulton county. Heavy cuts and fills have been made and the road splendidly paved. No objectionable features or surroundings. You can take this alone or a number of gentlemen can take it together, The price is far below what you can buy any other tract equally well situated, and the property is an unusually attractive one. It will pay you to call and get full particulars and inspect it. There is money to be made by acting promptly.

SAN'L W. GOODE & CO.

$1,250 is what the choice Forest avenue lot, 50x150, can be bought. It lies well, is in a splendid neighborhood that is already nicely built up with nice houses, has a ten-foot alley in the rear and is decidedly the best vacant lot on the north side for the money. Terms reasonable.

A LITTLE SENSATION IN BANKIN'S MISSION CHUBCH.

Musicians Taken to Task for Playing Dance Music in the House of Worship
-Mr. Quarles Talks in Meeting.

An interesting little incident occurred down it the Georgia avenue Presbyterian church last Thursday night. It develops a swell sensation.

The nature of the affair was such as has It seems that quite a large crowd of men, women and young felks gathered in the church that night for the purpose of enjoying a programme of music and recitatious that had been getten up for entertainment by some of the Sunday school men.

The purpose of the entertainment seems to have been simply to cultivate the social side of the church by having an interesting per-formance. No admission fee was asked, for the entertainment was not for any material benefit of the church. The programme began by a hymn played by the orchestra that had been invited to play that evening.

After this, the orchestra, which consisted of eight pieces, flute, clarionet, trombone, cornet, two violins and a bass fiddle, played many selections, which the leader himself had been allowed to make.

These selections, it is told, were anything but pious in their discourse. In fact they were of a light measure more calculated to lead one to the shrine of Terpsichere than to the altar of Jehovah. The sweetest strains from "Bohemian Girl," followed in quick order by the viva-cious measure of "Home Circle Overture," were well rendered by the musicians.

Then came the dreamiest and sweetest of waltzes, "Shower of Gold" and "Santeago," whose charming swell filled the church with soulful vibrations.

Two of the young ladies played "The Jolly Blacksmith" with magic touch on the piano, and two or three of the children recited some jolly little comic songs—all in their own sweet, innocent style. HE SPEAKS OUT IN MEETING.

Before the programme was finished, however, and during an intermission, Mr. A. H. Quarles arose to a point of order, so to speak. He said that while he had enjoyed the evening very much, and was in favor of cultivat-ing the social feature of church life, he was called upon by his conception of reverential respect to the church to object to such music as the orchestra had been dealing out. "I don't think," said he, "that such selec-tions and such music is in harmony with the surroundings. I make this denunciation for no one but myself, and am solely responsible for what I say, but I think the majority of the members of this church will bear me out in what I sav."

Such were the words used, as recalled by Mr. Quarles yesterday.

IT CAUSED SOME EXCITEMENT.

These remarks caused some consternation.
The members of the orchestra looked at each other with astonishment, and showed that they were much embarrassed by Mr. Quarles's

'We had no intention of causing such a feeling," said one of the orchestra yesterday, "and hadn't for an instant fancied that our elections were out of order. "It was no religious service and the recita-tions and songs were all light and amusing, selected with a simple view to entertain the "For this reason, one of the orchestra went to see Mr. Quarles and asked what his objections were based on—whether they were against the selections or the manner in which they were played. To this he replied that he couldn't be more explicit than he had been in his first speech and would say nothing else about it. "We asked him to apologize for the sake of the young ladies who had taken part in the peogramme, but he said he had nothing to retract, and here the matter ended."

Mr. Quarles says several prominent mem-bers of the church left the house on account of the music.

IT WILL COME UP.

It is said that the matter will come up before the officers of the church.

The musicians will be asked to appear before the officers and play over the same selections that they might be judged proper or improper by the church.

The repetition of the programme for this purpose will, it is said, be given before the officers next Thursday night.

The musicians appear to be perfectly willing to submit their selections to the board of officers for criticism.

L. M. Robinson, Pharmacist, Sabina, O.

L. M. Robinson, Pharmacist, Sabina, O., certifies: "Ayer's Sarsaparilla has always been a great seller. My customers think there is no blood-purifier equal to it."

"For many years I was afflicted with scrotulous running sores, which, at last became so bad the doctors advised amputating one of my legs to save my life. I began taking Ayer's Sarsaparilia and soon saw an improvement. After using about two dozen bottles the sores were healed. I continue to take a few bottles of this medicine each year, for my blood, and am no longer troubled with sores. I have tried other reputed blood-purifiers, but none does so much good blood-purifiers, but none does so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla."—D. A. Robinson, Neal, Kansas.

G. H. TANNER, Clerk.

Georgia, Fulton County-The above and foregoing is a true and correct copy of the original petition to amend the charter of the "Windsor Park Company," as appears of record in this office.

Witness my hund and seal of said court, this September 9, 1890.

G. H. TANNER, Sept 19, 17, 24-oct-1

Clerk Superior Court.

(IEORGIA, FULTON COUNTY.—TO THE SU
I PERIOR court of said county. The petition of Julius Menko, Bertha Menko, Joseph Menko, Willie Menko, H. Cronheim, S. S. Selig, R. N.
Hudson, M. B. Torbett, Thomas L. Bishop, Chas.
G. Giddings, of the county of Fulton, Sam. Sulzbacher and James Sulzbacher, of the county and state of New York, respectfully shows that they desire for themselves and for their successors and assigns to be incorporated and made a body corporate and politic, under the laws of Georgia, under the corporate name and style of
THE MENKO TRANSFER COMPANY.
The object of said corporation is that of pecu-

under the corporate name and style of
THE MENKO TRANSFER COMPANY.
The object of said corporation is that of pecuniary gain to its stockholders, by the means of carrying on the business of transferring, delivering freights and passengers and parcels and baggage as hereinafter stated.

The particular business of said corporation will be to transport passengers by means of hacks, buggies and carriages to any point in said county, also deliver parcels, baggage and freight in the city of Atlanta and surrounding country, from point to point, by means of wagons, carts, drawn and carried or impelled by horses and mules, and any other vehicle that they may desire to use for the transaction of their business, and for such transfer and delivery of freight and passengers, said corporation will have toils and charges which it asks authority to levy, fix and collect.

3. The chief office of said corporation and the place of doing its business shall be in the city of Atlanta, and in the county of Fulton. The capital stock of said corporation will be $10,000, divided into shares of $25 each, 10 per cent of which has been actually paid in, and they desire the authority to increase the same to any sum not exceeding $25,000, by a vote of a majority of its stockholders. Petitioners desire to be incorporated for the full term of twenty years and the privilege of renowal at the expiration of said time.

4. They desire said corporation to have the power of suing and being sued, and to have and use a common seal, and to have succession, make such by-laws, rules and regulations binding upon its own members as are not inconsistent with the laws of this state and of the United States, and to alter, amend and rescind the same at pleasure; that it may have power to receive rent, lease, purchase and hold such real estate and personal property as may be necessary for the purposes of its creation, or for securing debts to it, and to dispose of the same at pleasure; that it have power to elect such officers, managers and directors or agents as 1882, and amendments incident to such corporations.

Wherefore, petitioners pray that this petition may be filed and recorded in the clerk's office of said court, and there published, as required by law, that afterwards the court will pass an order incorporating them as prayed for. And your petitioners will ever pray.

THOMAS L. BISHOP,
Petitioners' Attorney.

NOTICE by the Mayor and General Council of the City of Atlanta of the holding of an election to determine the question whether bonds shall be issued by said city for the purpose of increasing the water supply of said city:

WHEREAS, THE MAYOR AND GENERAL two hundred and fifty thousand dollars ($250,000) of bonds of said city, for the purpose of increasing the water supply of said city, and the assent of the qualified voters of said city being necessary thereto:

the water supply of said city, and the assent of the qualified voters of said city being necessary thereto:

Therefore, Be it ordained by the mayor and general council aforesaid, that in accordance with the constitution and laws of said state, and in pursuance of the amendment to the charter of said city authorizing the issue of said bonds, an election shall be held on the 14th day of October, 1890, to determine the question whether said water bonds shall be issued by said city, and that notice to the people (qualified voters of said city) be published in the Atlanta Constitution, the newspaper in which the sheriff's advertisements for said county are published, for the space of thirty days next preceding the day of said election, as provided by law, said bonds to bear interest at the rate of four (4) per centum per annum, and to run not exceeding thirty years from the date thereof, the interest to be paid semi-annually, on the first days of said bonds to be fully paid off within thirty years of the date of the issuance thereor.

If the issue of said water bonds is voted by the requisite two-thirds of the qualified voters of said city, then, and before the proposed debt is incurred, an ordinance or ordinances shall be passed providing for the sale and issue thereof, and making provision at the same time for the assessment and collection of the annual taxes sufficient in amount to pay the principal and interest of said debt wighin thirty years from the date of incurring said indebtedness.

But this shall not operate to increase the annual taxes on real estate or personal property beyond the charter rate of one and one-half (1½) per cent per annum.

At said election the voters shall have printed or the property are their healter the same time.

the charter rate of one and one-man (172) per annum.

At said election the voters shall have printed or written on their ballots, "For Water Bonds" or "Against Water Bonds."

Said election shall be held as municipal election in this city are held, and conducted in like manner, and in accordance with Sections 50s I to 50s N inclusive, of the Code of the state of Georgia.

Approved September 5, 1890.

JOHN T. GLENN, Mayor.

I certify that the foregoing preamble and ordinance were adopted by the mayor and general council of the city of Atlanta on September 1, 1830, and concurred in by the aldermanic board of said city on September 4, 1890, and approved by the mayor of said city September 5, 1890.

THE STOCK MARKET.

The Day on the Floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

NEW YORK, September 9.—The stock market lus of any kind today, but pres was without stimulus of any kind today, but pres-sure to sell was much less than yesterday, and as a consequence prices moved more in obedience to natural inclination than for some time past. All news of today, which was very meagre, was rather news of today, which was very meagre, was rather of a favorable tenor, but was not of a character to have any material effect upon the course of prices. Railroad statements were all on the right side of the account and reports from Boston went to show that the failure of Potter, Lovell & Co. would not turn out so bad as expected. Reports from Washington, however, did not give so favorable a prospect for sugar refineries and less business was done in that stock, with some reaction able a prospect for signal reliments and less was done in that stock, with some reaction from the advance of yesterday. The bears renewed pressure upon Chicago gas and to a lesser extent on Burlington and Quincy, but only in the former was there any impression made, and Burlington and Chicago gas and to a lesser extent on Burlington and Quincy, but only in the former was there any impression made, and Burlington and Chicago gas and control of the contr lington railied vigorously, while Rock Island was Arm, with light transactions. St. Paul again oc-cupied a prominent place in the dealings, but, as usual of late, its fluctuations were small, with an usual of late, its fluctuations were small, with an upward tendency. Lackawanna was a feature and showed marked strength at times under considerable animation. Illinois Central sold high and is still in demand at a premium for use, while late in the day none was offered below 112, which is one per cent better than the last sale before it was marked off so rapidly, so that in this stock, at least, it looks as if the bears were paying dearly for their whistle. Speculative situation remains the same, and while the bears are resting from their exertions of the past few days, the from their exertions of the past few days, the bulls do not seem to be inclined to take hold with any increased vigor, and holders of securities still think it is not a good time to sell stocks. The market showed more animation in spots than usual of late, while the number of stocks traded in was smaller than usual. A remarkable feature of the day was the strength displayed in the afternoon in the face of high rates exacted for money, which we could trace the results of the control of the control of the country from their exertions of the past few days, the which reached twenty-five per cent at one time and closed at twenty. There were large numbers of ioans called and the shifting of loans made a sharp demand. The weakness in Chicago gas was accompanied by the old rumors of some action against the company by local authorities. The demand in the loan crowd for stocks was fully as urgent as that for money, while the prospect of easy money gave the bulls encouragement. The bears were taking in their contracts under cover of high rates for money. Final changes, with a few unimportant exceptions, are almost entirely in an upward direction. Sales aggregated 14,000 shares, listed, and 21,000 unlisted.

Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular.

NEW YORK, September 9—[Special]—The Liverpool market lacks the support of spinners' purchases, as spot sales this morning are only 7,000 bales, but futures are from 2@3 points higher, the strength being especially noticeable in the near positions. Our cables attribute the improvement to the continued anticipation of an unfavorable bureau report and the firmness of the southern markets, where the absence of any pressure, considering the magnitude of receipts and the reported tightness of money, is truly remarkable. Estimates of the percentage to be shown by the bureau report vary from 83 to 86.6, the latter figure being that of last year. The only known data as Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular.

yet available are the reports of the Arkansas and Georgia commissioners, which, as previously stated, make the condition respectively 8 and 9 per cent below last year. Upon this basis it does not cent below last year. Upon this basis it does not seem unreasonable to expect a report of 3 per cent under last year for the entire belt. This market, except about one hour in the forenoon, has been very steady, and the tendency during the entire day has been plainly toward higher figures. The closing is firm with every indication of further improvement tomorrow unless Liverpool will disappoint us. The September shorts view with increasing alarm the reduced stock here, now only 58,000 bales, of which less than 4,000 bales are tenderable, and a sharp covering demand was plainly unsatisfied at the close. unsatisfied at the close.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

THE CHICAGO MARKET.

Features of the Speculative Movement in Grain and Provisions.

CHICAGO, September 9—Wheat—A good business was transacted, and prices again lowered. It was mainly local with shorts covering and longs selling. A prominent local trader, credited with having sold 3,000,000 bushels yesterday, again sold quite freely today. The market opened about the same as it closed yesterday, held steady for while and then became weaker and prices declined 1c, rallied again, advancing 11%c, and the closing was %c higher than yesterday. Market advices from other points were unfavorable. Cables were generally lower.

Corn—There was moderate trading, most of which was local, within narrow limits. The market opened steady, and under good buying advanced ½@½c, reacted ½@½c, again advanced ½ @½c, ruled easier and closed with a shade advance. Oats—A moderately active and steady feeling prevailed. The feature of the trading was the bidding for round lots of May by a prominent local operator, and, offerings being light, prices were bid up \(\frac{1}{2}\)\(\pi_0\)\(\frac{1}{2}\)\(\pi_0\). The other deliveries were traded in sparingly within a small range, and the closing prices were at about the outside.

Mess pork—Not much life was manifested. At opening sales were made at yesterday's closing figures, and an advance of 5\(\pi_0\) loc was gained later to the degree of the content prevailed. The feature of the trading was the

in the day, and the market closed at about outside sales were made at yesterday's closing figures, and a few transactions later in the day were reported at 2½ advance.

Short ribs—Hardly enough business transacted to establish a market. Prices advance 2½ 65c.
